SEEK LAWS FOR PROTECTION OF FARMING FUTURE

Congressman William F. Lemke, of Fargo, North Dakota, and state and national Farmers' Union officers addressed a public meeting in the court house Tuesday evening that followed the first annual convention of the Adams county unit of the Farmers' Educational and Cooperative Union of America which was held in the afternoon in the local P. O. S. of A. hall on Chambersburg street.

At the afternoon session officers were elected for the county branch for the next year and arrangements made for the formation of new locals of the union in and near Gettysburg and elsewhere in the county.

W. A. Mahone, Oxford township, was re-elected president. George Shaeckel, of the Heidlersburg local, is vice-president, and Zeal Peters, Tyrone township, was chosen secretary-treasurer. An organizer for the county branch is yet to be named. These directors were chosen: Russell A. Myers, New Chester; A. Dale Knouse, Biglerville; H. R. Miller, New Oxford; R. D. George, D. Sheely, Oxford township; Monroe S. C. Goebrecht, member of the Oxford township local, and R. H. Hoover, Abbottstown.

Adopt Ten Resolutions

At the convention session, which was attended by about 40 delegates, speeches were made by the Rev. C. M. Mitzell, Shrewsbury, state union president; H. R. Miller, A. Dale Knouse and George D. Sheely.

The body adopted ten resolutions which are to be sent to United States senators from this state, Congressman Harry L. Haines, State Senator John S. Rice and Assemblyman Charles H. Richter. The measures demand enactment by Congress of such legislation that "will maintain and preserve for future generations the great American farming industry." They advocated passage of Lemke's House bill No. 659 "which will lift the farmer out of financial distress and place him on a business like basis and assure him cost of production for his crops." Another resolution decreed discrimination against the farmer in social security legislation to date and asked passage of the "general welfare act" that would provide "equal consideration and security for aged people irre-

APPROVE PARK ROAD CHANGES

Following inspection by Tell Nicolet, resident landscape architect of the National park service, and Superintendent James R. McConaghie, final acceptance of the $103,639.40 contract with the Highway Engineering and Construction company, of Washington, D. C., has been recommended to the Bureau of Public Roads, which supervised the work that has been underway for more than a year on the Gettysburg battlefield.

The final inspection was made last Friday and the recommendation for the acceptance has followed.

The park service let the contract to the Washington firm early last fall and work began in November of 1936 on the re-surfacing of nearly four miles of battlefield roadways, including, re-building of parts of that amount, re-location of others and the necessary changes in the location of six monuments. Originally set for completion in 300 working days, the contract was completed by the end of last month after several extensions had been granted. The work required the moving of 25,000 cubic yards of earth, placing 6,670 cubic yards of stone base material in the roadways, placing of a quarter of a mile of rustic guard rail and stripping and replacing of 2,620 square yards of sod. Over six acres of land had to be cleared and grubbed for the new locations.

Reynolds avenue was re-surfaced from the Fairfield road to the Lincoln highway and several curves were removed, the entire length of Meredith and Stone avenues was re-surfaced and the Burns statue at another marker were moved about 100 feet; East Confederate avenue was surfaced to the third bridge and the first two spans were lengthened; Meade and Pleasanton avenues were widened and surfaced at their intersections with main avenues and several monuments had to be moved; South Confederate avenue was re-surfaced from Little Round Top to the Emmitsburg road with a number of curves being removed and a new concrete arch bridge forming one of the largest units of the work.

All avenues but Pleasanton were built to a width of 20 feet. Pleasanton which is not on the regular guide route was made 18 feet wide. The funds that were used were made available through direct appropriation by Congress for use on roads and trails in national parks.

Mercury Drops to 18 Degrees Today; Lowest for Winter

Although many countants and residents of Gettysburg expressed the opinion that this morning was warmer than Tuesday morning when the winter's low mark of 20 degrees was equalled, the thermometer as read by Dr. Henry Stewart, official local weather observer, recorded a new low for this winter of 18 degrees.

The absence of the chill wind that blew almost continuously Tuesday was credited with making this morning seem warmer. State highway department snow plows worked up to 9 o'clock Tuesday evening and under crews also were busy during the early part of the night. This morning plows were dispatched to mountain sections of the county to open roads that were opened Tuesday. There was no drifting today, the highway workmen said.

Puerto Rican Memorial Stamps Put on Sale

Ten thousand Puerto Rican memorial stamps, one of the series of territorial stamps being issued by the postoffice department, were placed on sale here this morning. Postmaster C. A. Williams announced. The stamps are of the three-cent denomination and bear a reproduction of the governor's palace. They went on sale on November 25 at San Juan.

'PEST' CONTROL TO BE EXTENDED TO FEBRUARY 1

Gettysburg's mosquito eradication project, scheduled to end this week, has been extended until February 1.

Word to that effect was received late Tuesday afternoon by council President C. W. Epley who also is chairman of the borough's mosquito eradication committee.

A communication from A. M. Schroyer, district WPA engineer at Chambersburg, revealed that an additional grant of $638.60 or 10 per cent of the total sum originally set aside for the Gettysburg work has been allocated for work here. That added sum brings to $7,024.60 the money given this town for labor in pest eradication and cleanup work.

The project, which opened last spring, had been listed for completion by the end of this week when local and federal funds would have been exhausted. A final report on the work was given council Monday evening by President Epley when he thanked councilmen, Burgess Wilbur J. Stallsmith, Foreman Ralph Redding and his men for the work they had done in connection with the project.

Particular mention was made of the improvements made under the project in Rock creek near the sewage disposal plant. The Tiber, scene of the opening operations last April, Culp's run, the Poor House run and sections of Rock creek had been cleaned and channels opened by the workmen in addition to their work of draining stagnant pools, moving weeds and underbrush and spreading oil to destroy the pests and their breeding places.

Monday evening Epley indicated that work remained to be done on Rock creek and it is expected that at least a part of the work during the next six weeks extension will be done there.

The announcement from Schroyer also made provision for a transfer of six or eight men from the local project to a job at McSherrytown. It is expected that replacements will be sent here. The removals will leave 11 or 12 men on the mosquito project.

Epley said that an examination of the project's financial status shows that about $162.80 of local funds will be needed to work through January and that the committee's balance now is $142.

COLLEGE TO END ENGINEERING COURSES IN 1941

Decision to discontinue the engineering department at Gettysburg college beginning with the fall of 1941 after the graduation of present students in those courses was reached at the semi-annual winter meeting of the board of trustees of Gettysburg college Tuesday at the Penn-Harris hotel in Harrisburg.

The board's action came after it had heard the recommendation of the special committee which had been named to investigate the engineering department of the school. Discontinuance was recommended by that committee in view of the fact that the American Engineering society did not accredit courses offered in the engineering department at the Gettysburg institution. The board's special committee in the matter included Charles M. A. Stune, Dr. Amos Taylor and Dr. Louis Weaver.

The engineering department was formed in 1914 and since that time has graduated more than 200 students. There are 40 engineering students enrolled in the four classes at the college at present.

Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, college president, reported the largest enrollment in the history of the institution, 644 students. He also said he was well pleased with the financial condition of the college, which he described as the best since 1928.

Doctor Hanson reported also that the college has received two bequests totaling $25,500. One was given by Dr. Croell Keller, late of Harrisburg, and the other of $25,000 by a friend of the institution.

The board heard that new stacks at the library have been completed and were told of re-building of roads and walks through the campus.

Dr. J. B. McAllister, president of the board, presided with all but four of the trustees in attendance. Doctor Hanson described the meeting as being "most enthusiastic."

Bank Manager, Parson Foil $30,000 Holdup

Coniston, Ont., Dec. 8 (Canadian Press)—A visiting parson and a bank manager saved a $30,000 payroll early today by slamming the door on two slow-moving gunmen.

The gunmen, masked and with sawed-off shotguns and revolvers, slipped into the apartment of Manager John Graham, above the Canadian Bank of Commerce here, shortly after midnight.

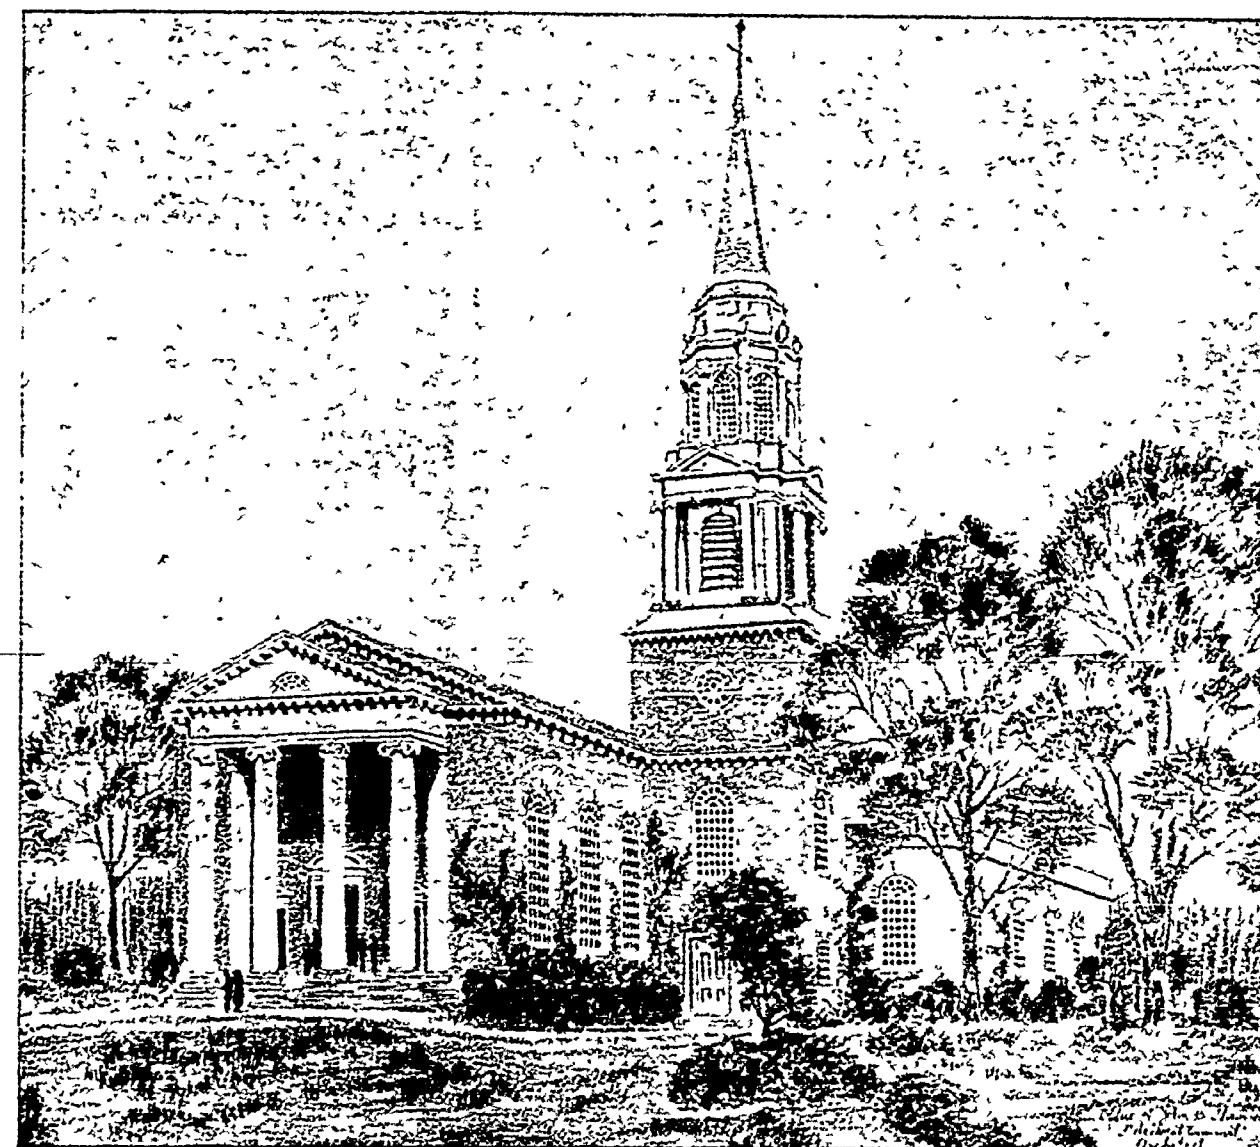

They demanded that Graham open the vault below. In it were the bank's regular funds and a $30,000 International Nickel payroll.

Mrs. Graham and Mrs. A. P. Addison, the pastor's wife, were tied in the apartment. Graham and the minister were herded down the stairway.

They reached the street door. Graham suddenly swung it open, and the Rev. Mr. Addison darted through, the slamming door locking the bandits in.

Police were called, but the gunmen had escaped by a rear stairway.

JAPS WARN ALL FOREIGNERS TO LEAVE NANKING

Shanghai, Dec. 8 (AP)—Japanese ministry authorities tonight warned all foreigners and Chinese non-combatants to evacuate beleaguered Nanking as quickly as possible.

"Hostilities may engulf the city at any moment," they said. Through Suemasa Okamoto, Japanese consul general at Shanghai, the authorities requested representatives of foreign powers, including the United States, to inform their respective nationals of the impending struggle in the evacuated Chinese capital.

There were 17 Americans in Nanking. The Japanese said they considered the former capital "one large Chinese capital."

EQUAL RIGHTS LAW IS TESTED

Harrisburg, Dec. 8 (AP)—The constitutionality of Pennsylvania's 1936 civil rights law, which prohibits discrimination against race, creed or color in public places, was challenged today in the Dauphin county court.

Arguments were heard to quash indictments against Franklin Moore and G. W. Stauffer, manager and assistant manager of the Penn-Harris hotel, who were indicted on charges of refusing to serve a group of Negro guests in the hotel taproom.

Spencer Nauman, Harrisburg attorney, representing the hotel men, contended that the title of the act was "insufficient," that no indictable offense had been charged, and that the bill passed by the last Assembly after many stormy arguments did not change the common law governing inkeepers.

Nauman said that for years the "right of an inkeeper to decide whom he shall serve has been acknowledged."

John D. Keith, of Gettysburg, counsel for the Pennsylvania Hotels association, added that "whether or not you are an acceptable guest in a hotel, depends upon the effect your presence will have on other guests of the hotel."

The other side was argued by Carlyle M. Tucker and Saul C. Waldbaum both of Philadelphia. District Attorney Karl E. Richards and his assistant, M. Leroy Keen, were observers for the county.

Judge W. C. Sheely, of the Adams county courts, is sitting with the three Dauphin county judges in this case. Henry M. Scharf, president of the Pennsylvania Hotels Association when the "civil rights" law was enacted and now a member of the executive committee of that organization, is attending the hearings today. Dr. Keith, associate counsel for the defense, recently wrote an extensive brief on the rights of hotel keepers for the state hotels association, which has been widely distributed and frequently quoted.

Mrs. Carl Oyler, Mrs. C. Richard Wolff and Mrs. Arthur E. Hutchison were visitors in York today.

BY THE TERMS OF THE WILL OF the late Theophilus B. Stork, the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological seminary will receive a part of his $300,000 estate for the erection of a chapel at the seminary.

The will, filed in Philadelphia Tuesday, provides that after bequests to kin of the former attorney have been made the estate will go to the Theological Seminary of the general synod of the Evangelical Lutheran church for erection of a chapel at Gettysburg.

"to the glory of God and in memory of Theophilus B. and Hannah Wharton Stork."

Theophilus B. Stork, father of the late attorney, was a graduate of Gettysburg college in 1835 and the seminary in 1837. Dr. Charles A. Stork, a brother of the younger Theophilus B. Stork, who died in October at the age of 82 years, was the third president of the Lutheran Theological seminary.

PROVISIONS OF APPLE JUDGING CONTEST GIVEN

Following action taken at the last meeting of the Adams county Fruit Growers' association when it was decided to sponsor a boys' judging team from Adams county in the state horticultural association apple judging contest at the state farm show at Harrisburg in January, arrangements were announced today for a preliminary contest for aspirants for the county team.

At 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon county boys will meet at the Biglerville high school for the preliminary contest for the purpose of selecting three boys to represent the county in the state competition.

The contest is open to any boy in Adams county who is not more than twenty years old or under fourteen years of age, with the exception of regularly enrolled college students or those enrolled in the two-year course.

Judging shall consist of two parts: (1) Identification or the naming of a variety and, (2) Placing according to the official score card.

Varieties of apples which may be included in the contest are: Baldwin, Ben Davis, Delicious, Gano, Grimes, Golden Delicious, Jonathan, McIntosh, Paragon, Rome, Stark, Stayman, Winesap, York, Winter Banana.

A plate shall consist of five apples. A class shall consist of three plates. The plates shall be placed on the basis of the following standard score card: Condition 30, uniformity 25, color 20, size 15, and form 10.

Standards to be met in the judging follow:

CONDITION. Heavy cuts shall be made for scab, cedar rust, bitter pit, or any other serious disease or insect injury such as codling moth, apple maggot, or curculio scars.

UNIFORMITY. All specimens on a plate should be uniform in color, size, and form.

COLOR. The most acceptable commercial color for the variety shall be considered ideal. In general, red colors should be bright red.

SIZE. Apples of good commercial size should be favored; neither too large nor too small. As a rule this would vary with each variety, but the minimum size for small varieties ought to be 2 1/4 inches and the maximum size for the larger varieties 3 1/4 inches.

FORM. Typical form for the variety should be considered.

A second part of the contest will be to have team members identify 50 apples, all of which will be selected from the 15 varieties used in the contest. Some of these apples may be poorly colored or off type. Five points will be given for each apple correctly identified or 250 points for the entire group.

The contestants' scores shall be the total number of points scored in the plate judging, plus the number of points scored in the identification group. Team rankings shall be determined by adding together the sums of the scores of the team individuals.

Following the preliminary contest, the judging team that qualifies will receive special instruction and practice in judging apples so as to be well prepared for the state contest. For further details boys interested should get in touch with the County Agent, M. T. Hartman, court house, Gettysburg.

CAR SKIDS INTO PATH OF SECOND; 2 WOMEN HURT

Two Gettysburg women were injured, neither critically, in an automobile collision on an ice-covered section of the Emmitsburg road four miles south of here Tuesday evening about 5:25 o'clock. Another icy highway accident was investigated by state motor policemen from the local substation near Mt. Holly Springs when two cars collided and the driver of a third machine, held responsible for the crash, faces a motor code violation charge.

Miss Irene McCammon, Baltimore street, is a patient in the Warner hospital here with a fracture of the right ankle, an injury she received while riding south on the Emmitsburg road with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Baum, Baltimore street, when the Baum car was struck by the skidding automobile of a Harrisburg Negro, William Page. Mrs. Baum suffered a fracture of the nose.

The collision, which took place near the Panorama inn, occurred when the northbound Harrisburg car suddenly skidded to the left and against the front of the car Baum was operating in the opposite direction. Damage to the Gettysburg machine was estimated at about $375 at a local garage where it was towed after the collision. Page's car was damaged to the extent of about $10. Both operators were unhurt. Mrs. Baum was treated by a local physician.

The accident was reported to the local substation of the state motor police and Officer J. P. Monaghan investigated. No charges have been filed.

Crash Near Mt. Holly Springs

Less than an hour earlier in the evening Officer Glenn F. Henry was called to the scene of a crash a quarter mile north of Mt. Holly Springs on the Carlisle highway where cars had collided on the ice-covered road without injury to any of the occupants.

Officer Henry learned that Harry L. Litzman, Carlisle, had been parked on the east side of the highway near the crest of a low grade and that his car had been struck by that of Charles Mullen, Mt. Holly Springs, which skidded off the highway while trying to avoid a collision with the car of Robert John Faust, Steelton, which is reported to have been in the act of passing a slow moving truck on the approach to the crest of the low hill.

When Faust saw the Mullen car approaching he veered off the left side of the road and averted a collision with the Mullen machine but the latter's car skidded around on the highway when he braked on the ice and struck the parked machine.

Officer Henry said he will file a charge against Faust before a South Middleton township justice of the peace charging the Steelton man with attempting to pass another car while approaching the crest of a hill.

Damage to the Litzman car was estimated at $10 and that to Mullen's at $5.

Following inspection by Tell Nicolet, resident landscape architect of the National park service, and Superintendent James R. McConaghie, final acceptance of the $103,639.40 contract with the Highway Engineering and Construction company, of Washington, D. C., has been recommended to the Bureau of Public Roads, which supervised the work that has been underway for more than a year on the Gettysburg battlefield.

The final inspection was made last Friday and the recommendation for the acceptance has followed.

The park service let the contract to the Washington firm early last fall and work began in November of 1936 on the re-surfacing of nearly four miles of battlefield roadways, including, re-building of parts of that amount, re-location of others and the necessary changes in the location of six monuments. Originally let for completion in 300 working days, the contract was completed by the end of last month after several extensions had been granted. The work required the moving of 25,000 cubic yards of earth, placing 6,670 cubic yards of stone base material in the roadways, placing of a quarter of a mile of rustic guard rail and stripping and replacing of 2,620 square yards of sod. Over six acres of land had to be cleared and grubbed for the new locations.

Reynolds avenue was re-surfaced from the Fairfield road to the Lincoln highway and several curves were removed; the entire length of Meredith and Stone avenues was re-surfaced and the Burns statue and another marker were moved about 100 feet; East Confederate avenue was surfaced to the third bridge and the first two spans were heightened; Meade and Pleasanton avenues were widened and surfaced at their intersections with main avenues and several monuments had to be moved; South Confederate avenue was re-surfaced from Little Round Top to the Emmitsburg road with a number of curves being removed and a new concrete arch bridge forming one of the largest mits of the work.

Although many countians and residents of Gettysburg expressed the opinion that this morning was warmer than Tuesday morning when the winter's low mark of 20 degrees was equalled, the thermometers as read by Dr. Henry Stewart, official local weather observer, recorded a new low for this winter of 18 degrees.

The absence of the chill wind that blew almost continuously Tuesday was credited with making this morning seem warmer.

'PEST' CONTROL TO BE EXTENDED TO FEBRUARY 1

Gettysburg's mosquito eradication project, scheduled to end this week, has been extended until February 1.

Word to that effect was received late Tuesday afternoon by council President C. W. Epley who also is chairman of the borough's mosquito eradication committee.

A communication from A. M. Schroyer, district WPA engineer at Chambersburg, revealed that an additional grant of $638.60 or 10 per cent of the total sum originally set aside for the Gettysburg work has been allocated for work here. That added sum brings to $7,024.60 the money given this town for labor in pest eradication and clean-up work.

The project, which opened last spring, had been listed for completion by the end of this week when local and federal funds would have been exhausted. A final report on the work was given council Monday evening by President Epley when he thanked councilmen, Burgess Wilbur J. Stille-smith, Foreman Ralph Redding and his men for the work they had done in connection with the project.

Particular mention was made of the improvements made under the project in Rock creek near the sewage disposal plant. The Tiber, scene of the opening operations last April; Culp's run, the Poor House run and sections of Rock creek had been cleaned and channels opened by the workmen in addition to their work of draining stagnant pools, moving weeds and underbrush and spreading oil to destroy the pests and their breeding places.

Monday evening Epley indicated that work remained to be done on Rock creek and it is expected that at least a part of the work during the next six weeks extension will be done there.

The announcement from Schroyer also made provision for a transfer of six or eight men from the local project to a job at McSherrystown. It is expected that replacements will be sent here. The removals will leave 11 or 12 men on the mosquito project.

Epley said that an examination of the project's financial status shows that about $162.80 of local funds will be needed to work through January and that the committee's balance now is $142.

COLLEGE TO END ENGINEERING COURSES IN 1941

Decision to discontinue the engineering department at Gettysburg college beginning with the fall of 1941 after the graduation of present students in those courses was reached at the semi-annual winter meeting of the board of trustees of Gettysburg college Tuesday at the Penn-Harris hotel in Harrisburg.

The board's action came after it had heard the recommendation of the special committee which had been named to investigate the engineering department of the school. Discontinuance was recommended by that committee in view of the fact that the American Engineering society did not accredit courses offered in the engineering department at the Gettysburg institution. The board's special committee in the matter included Charles M. A. Stine, Dr. Amos Taylor and Dr. Louis Weaver.

The engineering department was formed in 1914 and since that time has graduated more than 200 students. There are 40 engineering students enrolled in the four classes at the college at present.

Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, college president, reported the largest enrollment in the history of the institution, 644 students. He also said he was well pleased with the financial condition of the college, which he described as the best since 1928.

Doctor Hanson reported also that the college has received two bequests totaling $25,500. One was given by Dr. Croll Keller, late of Harrisburg, and the other of $25,000 by a friend of the institution.

The board heard that new stacks at the library have been completed and were told of re-building of roads and walks through the campus.

Dr. J. B. McAllister, president of the board, presided with all but four of the trustees in attendance. Doctor Hanson described the meeting as being "most enthusiastic."

40 Attend Meeting Of Musicians Here

Forty persons attended the December dinner meeting of the "In and About Harrisburg Music Educators' club" at the Blue Parrot tea room Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Guests were present from Annapolis, Harrisburg, York, Red Lion, Wrightsboro and Gettysburg.

Prof. L. C. Keefe presided as toastmaster. Miss Mary Gillespie, of Lebanon Valley college, was in charge of the business meeting. The guest speaker was Dr. Vincent Jones, director of the Music department of Temple university.

Included on the program was a flute solo by Lena Hartzell, accompanied by E. S. Longanecker; trombone duets by Robert Shryock and William Keefe; trumpet trio, Ralph Bish, Marion Thomas and Donald Ely, accompanied by Grace Naill, all of Hanover, and two vocal solos by Miss Letha Stoner, accompaniments for which were played by Mrs. S. F. Snyder.

The next meeting will be held in York on February 4.

CAR TURNS OVER

A car driven by Fred Hubbard, of Gettysburg, started to skid as it descended a hill on the Mummassburg road about four miles from here late Tuesday afternoon and after turning over on its top came to rest against a tree. Hubbard, who had been driving toward Gettysburg, was uninjured. The car was towed to a local garage.

Bank Manager, Parson Foil $30,000 Holdup

Coniston, Ont., Dec. 8 (Canadian Press)—A visiting parson and a bank manager saved a $30,000 payroll early today by slamming the door on two slow-moving gunmen.

The gunmen, masked and with sawed-off shotguns and revolvers, slipped into the apartment of Manager John Graham, above the Canadian Bank of Commerce here, shortly after midnight.

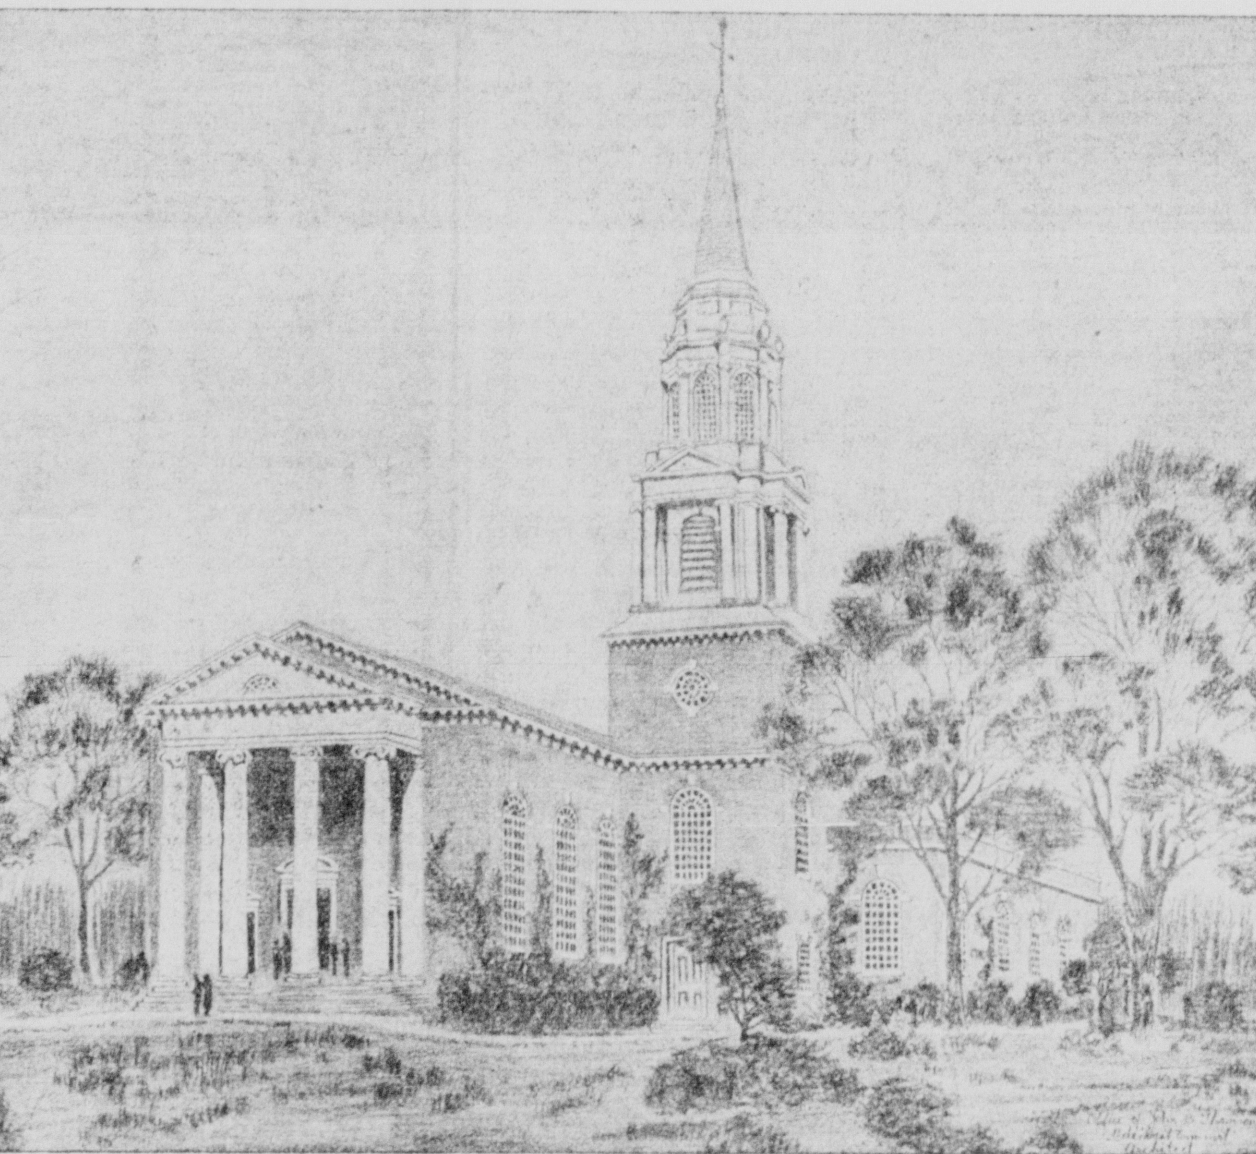

They demanded that Graham open the vault below. In it were the bank's regular funds and a $30,000 International Nickel payroll.

Mrs. Graham and Mrs. A. P. Addison, the pastor's wife, were tied in the apartment. Graham and the minister were herded down the stairway.

They reached the street door. Graham suddenly swung it open, and he and the Rev. Mr. Addison darted through, the slamming door locking the bandits in.

Police were called, but the gunmen had escaped by a rear stairway.

JAPS WARN ALL FOREIGNERS TO LEAVE NANKING

Shanghai, Dec. 8 (AP)—Japanese ministry authorities tonight warned all foreigners and Chinese non-combatants to evacuate beleaguered Nanking as quickly as possible.

"Hostilities may engulf the city at any moment," they said. Through Suemasa Okamoto, Japanese consul general at Shanghai, the authorities requested representatives of foreign powers, including the United States, to inform their respective nationals of the impending struggle in the evacuated Chinese capital.

There were 17 Americans in Nanking. The Japanese said they considered the former capital "one large Continued on Second Page)

EQUAL RIGHTS LAW IS TESTED

Harrisburg, Dec. 8 (AP)—The constitutionality of Pennsylvania's 1936 civil rights law, which prohibits its discrimination against race, creed or color in public places, was challenged today in the Dauphin county court.

Arguments were heard to quash indictments against Franklin Moore and G. W. Stauffer, manager and assistant manager of the Penn-Harris hotel, who were indicted on charges of refusing to serve a group of Negro guests in the hotel taproom.

Spencer Nauman, Harrisburg attorney, representing the hotel men, contended that the title of the act was "insufficient," that no indictable offense had been charged, and that the bill passed by the last Assembly after many stormy arguments did not change the common law governing inkeepers.

Nauman said that for years the "right of an inkeeper to decide whom he shall serve has been acknowledged."

John D. Keith, of Gettysburg, counsel for the Pennsylvania Hotels association, added that "whether or not you are an acceptable guest in a hotel, depends upon the effect your presence will have on other guests of the hotel."

The other side was argued by Carlyle M. Tucker and Saul C. Waldbaum, both of Philadelphia. District Attorney Karl E. Richards and his assistant, M. Leroy Keen, were observers for the county.

Judge W. C. Sheely, of the Adams county courts, is sitting with the three Dauphin county judges in this case. Henry M. Scharf, president of the Pennsylvania Hotels Association when the "civil rights" law was enacted and now a member of the executive committee of that organization, is attending the hearing today. Mr. Keith, associate counsel for the defense, recently wrote an extensive brief on the rights of hotel keepers for the state hotels association, which has been widely distributed and frequently quoted.

Mrs. Carl Oyer, Mrs. C. Richard Wolff and Mrs. Arthur E. Hutchison were visitors in York today.

Firemen To Hold Election Tonight

"to the glory of God and in memory of Theophilus B. and Hannah Wharton Stork."

Theophilus B. Stork, father of the late attorney, was a graduate of Gettysburg college in 1835 and the seminary in 1837. Dr. Charles A. Stork, a brother of the younger Theophilus B. Stork, who died in October at the age of 82 years, was the third president of the Lutheran Theological seminary.

PROVISIONS OF APPLE JUDGING CONTEST GIVEN

Following action taken at the last meeting of the Adams county Fruit Growers' association when it was decided to sponsor a boys' judging team from Adams county in the state horticultural association apple judging contest at the state farm show at Harrisburg in January, arrangements were announced today for a preliminary contest for aspirants for the county team.

At 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon county boys will meet at the Biglerville high school for the preliminary contest for the purpose of selecting three boys to represent the county in the state competition.

The contest is open to any boy in Adams county who is not more than twenty years old or under fourteen years of age, with the exception of regularly enrolled college students or those enrolled in the two-year course.

Judging shall consist of two parts: (1.) Identification or the naming of a variety and, (2.) Placing according to the official score card.

Varieties of apples which may be included in the contest are: Baldwin, Ben Davis, Delicious, Gano, Grimes, Golden Delicious, Jonathan, McIntosh, Paragon, Rome, Stark, Stayman, Winesap, York, Winter Banana.

A plate shall consist of five apples. A class shall consist of three plates. The plates shall be placed on the basis of the following standard score card: Condition 30, uniformity 25, color 20, size 15, and form 10.

Standards to be met in the judging follow:

CONDITION: Heavy cuts shall be made for scab, cedar rust, bitter pit, or any other serious disease or insect injury such as codling moth, apple maggot, or curculio scars.

UNIFORMITY: All specimens on a plate should be uniform in color, size, and form.

COLOR: The most acceptable commercial color for the variety shall be considered ideal. In general, red colors should be bright red.

SIZE: Apples of good commercial size should be favored; neither too large nor too small. As a rule this would vary with each variety, but the minimum size for small varieties ought to be 2 1/2 inches and the maximum size for the larger varieties 3 1/2 inches.

FORM: Typical form for the variety should be considered.

A second part of the contest will be to have team members identify 50 apples, all of which will be selected from the 15 varieties used in the contest. Some of these apples may be poorly colored or off type. Five points will be given for each apple correctly identified or 250 points for the entire group.

The contestants scores shall be the total number of points scored in the plate judging, plus the number of points scored in the identification group. Team rankings shall be determined by adding together the sums of the scores of the team individuals.

Following the preliminary contest, the judging team that qualifies will receive special instruction and practice in judging apples so as to be well prepared for the state contest. For further details boys interested should get in touch with the County Agent, M. T. Hartman, court house, Gettysburg.

CAR SKIDS INTO PATH OF SECOND; 2 WOMEN HURT

Two Gettysburg women were injured, neither critically, in an automobile collision on an ice-covered section of the Emmitsburg road four miles south of here Tuesday evening about 5:25 o'clock. Another icy highway accident was investigated by state motor policemen from the local substation near Mt. Holly Springs when two cars collided and the driver of a third machine, held responsible for the crash, faces a motor code violation charge.

Mrs. Ione McCammon, Baltimore street, is a patient in the Warner hospital here with a fracture of the right ankle, an injury she received while riding south on the Emmitsburg road with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Baum, Baltimore street, when the Baum car was struck by the skidding automobile of a Harrisburg Negro, William Page. Mr. Baum suffered a fracture of the nose.

The collision, which took place near the Panorama inn, occurred when the northbound Harrisburg car suddenly skidded to the left and against the front of the car Baum was operating in the opposite direction. Damage to the Gettysburg machine was estimated at about $375 at a local garage where it was towed after the collision. Page's car was damaged to the extent of about $10. Both operators were unhurt. Mrs. Baum was treated by a local physician.

The accident was reported to the local substation of the state motor police and Officer J. P. Monaghan investigated. No charges have been filed.

Crash Near Mt. Holly Springs
Less than an hour earlier in the evening Officer Glenn F. Henry was called to the scene of a crash a quarter mile north of Mt. Holly Springs on the Carlisle highway where cars had collided on the ice-covered road without injury to any of the occupants.

Officer Henry learned that Harry L. Liszman, Carlisle, had been parked on the east side of the highway near the crest of a low grade and that his car had been struck by that of Charles Mullen, Mt. Holly Springs, which skidded off the highway while trying to avoid a collision with the car of Robert John Faust, Steelton, which is reported to have been in the act of passing a slow moving truck on the approach to the crest of the low hill.

When Faust saw the Mullen car approaching he veered off the left side of the road and averted a collision with the Mullen machine but the latter's car skidded around on the highway when he braked on the ice and struck the parked machine.

Officer Henry said he will file a charge against Faust before a South Middleton township justice of the peace charging the Steelton man with attempting to pass another car while approaching the crest of a hill. Damage to the Liszman car was estimated at $10 and that to Mullen's at $5.

Thousands of Chinese, who took no active part in the defense of the city, were huddled in the refugee district. A safety zone, established by Americans and other foreigners, has been destroyed.

While indicating that a major struggle for the former capital was imminent, the Japanese said, today brought no major developments in that sector, about 180 miles west and slightly north of Shanghai.

Military and naval spokesmen said land and water divisions of the Japanese military machine, acting in concert, had reduced Chinese opposition in the vicinity of Kiangyin forts, about 100 miles east and down the Yangtze river from Nanking.

They said that army units crossed the Yangtze river there under a curfewing naval barrage and had occupied Tsingking on the northern shore, preparatory to a northward rush that would parallel the Japanese advance on Nanking along the southern bank.

In Tokyo a foreign office spokesman implied that the United States and three other governments were attempting to mediate the Far Eastern war. The other powers were said to be England, Germany and Italy. Japanese officials continued to hope that China would ask for peace with the fall of Nanking, but indicated that China as yet had made no overtures.

Spanish Fronts Active

A dramatic renewal of large-scale aerial operations by both sides marked the Spanish conflict.

Barcelona and other towns of Spain's Government-held eastern coast and the Insurgents' Mallorca island aviation base searched the debris of blasted buildings reported to contain hundreds of bodies.

Twenty-four Government planes and 15 insurgent air raiders carried out almost simultaneous attacks on the widely separated objectives. Madrid also experienced a heavy artillery shelling.

With war shaking two of the world's fronts, French Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos arrived in Rumania from Poland on a mission to make Europe's peace more secure.

He declared his visit to Warsaw had demonstrated Franco-Polish relations were "unbreakably close" and that his stay in Rumania and other central European countries would establish mutual cooperation to further peace throughout the world.

Plans for the departure of the Duke of Aosta, cousin of King Vittorio Emanuele, on December 15 to take over the post of Viceroy of Ethiopia were announced in Rome.

United States Ambassador to Germany William E. Dodd declared in Berlin he had met with "real discouragement" in performing his duties. His resignation had just been announced.

Bequests Depend on Earnings

Philadelphia, Dec. 8 (AP)—The four grandchildren of the late Theophilus D. S. are satisfied with the stipulation of his will that each is to receive an amount equal to what he or she earns for the next five years, then the father said to pay.

Dr. Charles Watson, stock professor at Haverford college, Bryn Mawr, said his children appreciated the thoughtful advice of their grandfather, a former Philadelphia attorney, that "happiness comes from one's own work" more than they did the financial benefits involved.

The will set a minimum of $1,500 and a maximum of $4,000 as the amount to match what each grandchild earns. After five years, the will said, each will receive a $4,000 annual income from the estate, estimated at nearly $300,000.

The grandchildren are Mr. Roy H. Regan, 20, of New York, who writes poetry; Francis W. 25, a student of sculpture at Temple university; George Frederick, 24, English professor at the Thacher school near Santa Barbara, California; and Karl Alexander, 10, a pupil at Penn Charter school, Philadelphia.

Their father said they felt the terms of the will "will be stimulating and shows the greatest personal interest. It places a real feeling of responsibility upon each one, with the exception of the young lad, who is not concerned with earning his living at the present time."

SNATCHES 3 POCKETBOOKS

Miami, Fla., Dec. 8 (AP)—Police hunted today a woman who was reported to have snatched wallets from three men in four days after asking directions "to the nearest church." Driving in a sedan with a man and two children the police said, she hailed the men on the sidewalk, left the car to speak to them and grabbed the wallets from their pockets and fled before they could defend themselves. Her first victim lost $2, the second $25 and the third had no money in his pocketbook.

STOCK REPORT

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—The stock market crept into a modest rally today, stimulated by quiet strength among rail shares. Near point advances of fractions to a point or more were predominant. There was a scattering of losers. Volume was restricted. Volume stocks were higher from the start while steels, after early hesitation pushed ahead in later dealings. Rubber, farm implement building material and merchandising shares were in some demand. Utilities and oils were backward. Brokers ascribed the advance to selective buying and a little short covering.

spective of their earlier occupations in life."

Claiming that the "unwritten law of supply and demand" is the best regulator of farm crops and their prices, the farmers entered a strong protest against passage of any crop control bill. Endorsing the principle of home rule, they protested against centralization of power by state or national governments.

An invitation was issued to the state officers to bring the 1938 state convention here in October.

Other resolutions opposed the basic and surplus plan of purchasing milk, urged Congress to regulate the value of money and reclaim the right to coin money and finally approved the cause of organized labor working toward better working conditions although they decline to affiliate with organized labor unions.

Mahone presided at the evening meeting and presented State President Mitchell who introduced Edward E. Kennedy, national secretary and Washington representative for state farmers' unions. Describing the nature, purpose and program of the Union he scored the farm bill now before Congress as "impossible to understand or administer." He said it puts the farmer in a straight jacket with a ceiling on production and a limit on prices. He backed a substitute bill which he says will be presented which would fix minimum prices on the basis of average cost of production.

Congressman Lemke was introduced as "the man we're going to put in the White House in 1941" by George D. Sheely. Scoring administration policies of "scarcity through destruction" with regard to farm crop control, the speaker declared that there would be no surplus if distribution and purchasing power would be handled properly. "The only thing we have a surplus of today in this country," he declared, "is the overproduction of insanity in Washington." He held the Federal land bank and the HOLC as the worst criminals in taking away thousands of farmers' homes through foreclosures and recommended his re-financing bill as the solution. He blamed the "corrupt patronage system" for the "weak-kneed congressmen" who admire his bills but won't vote for them.

"This country can't be half-slave and half free economically any more than it could racially before the Civil war," he concluded.

JAPS APOLOGIZE TO BRITISH FOR BOMBING

London, Dec. 8 (AP)—Japan apologized today to Great Britain for the aerial bombing of the British steamers Tuckow and Tatum at Wuhu December 5. It was learned that the question of indemnity was being considered. (The Tatum was beached because of the bombing by Japanese war planes and the Tuckow was set afire. The Tuckow was loaded with Chinese refugees. Damage to the ships was estimated at about $500,000. The incident occurred at Wuhu, a Yangtze river port about 60 miles southwest of Nanking.)

CURTIS ASKS PARDON

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 8 (AP)—Among 12 applications for full pardons listed for consideration today by the court of pardons was that of John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk, Virginia, boatbuilder, whose stories of being in contact with the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby led authorities on a fruitless chase during investigation of the case. Convicted of obstructing justice, Curtis was given a suspended prison sentence of one year and fined $1,000.

Cosmetics have been used by both men and women since earliest times.

Forecast Passage of Farm Bill This Week

Washington, Dec. 8 (AP)—Administration lieutenants, encouraged by test votes in House and Senate, forecast today the long-debated crop control bill would win approval by both chambers this week.

Their optimism was caused by a double victory for the bill's supporters Tuesday:

1. The House turned down, 80 to 59, a proposal to eliminate marketing quotas for cotton. Leaders predicted they could defeat a similar attempt to remove provisions for compulsory control of corn.

2. The Senate defeated, 51 to 25, an amendment by Republican Leader McNary to limit the farm program's operation to three years.

Senate leaders said the greatest remaining danger would be a motion to send the bill back to committee. They declared, however, a count showed they could defeat it by a margin of 15 or 20 votes.

Foes of the bill disputed this figure. They said they had almost enough votes pledged to send back the measure, and that when the roll call came they might have enough.

Forecast of a final vote this week also were challenged by some of the measure's critics.

House leaders were in better shape for completing the legislation this week, although they had abandoned efforts to limit debate. They already had disposed tentatively of some of the major issues that still must be debated in the Senate.

'FRONT-DRIVE' BOATS FAIL TO PRODUCE WAVES

Mannheim, Germany (AP)—Trial runs here of a new river craft, with propellers in the bow instead of the stern, indicate the boat may revolutionize shipping on canals and small rivers.

Steadily increasing speed of river and canal craft has been a source of constant worry to authorities in charge of the waterways.

Narrow canals and rivers have suffered from fast craft because suction, created by waves formed by these boats, damage the embankments and river beds.

So far no remedy had been found except reduction of speed, a step, however, which is not economical because only part of the boat's engine power is utilized.

The newly constructed vessel, measuring approximately 229 feet in length and driven by two Diesel engines of 135 horsepower each, has eliminated these difficulties. It goes through the water like a fish, its constructors say.

This is made possible, it is explained, by placing the two propellers at the bow, thereby securing a pulling power instead of the usual pushing force.

Furthermore, the two propellers run in steel cylinders—the so-called Kortschke Duess—with an extended diameter at front. This construction not only eliminates all wave formation, but creates additional pressure, thereby increasing the effectiveness of the propellers, it was asserted.

Trial trips conducted on the Neckar Canal under critical eyes of the canal authorities proved the boat traveling at a speed of seven-and-a-half miles an hour—more than twice the canal speed limit—did not produce any waves.

fortification" and therefore could not give the Chinese non-combatants and foreigners the assurance of safety in the so-called refugee zone.

Thousands of Chinese, who took no active part in the defense of the city, were huddled in the refugee district. A safety zone, established by Americans and other foreigners, flew distinctive flags.

While indicating that a major struggle for the former capital was imminent, the Japanese said, today brought no major developments in that sector, about 180 miles east and slightly north of Shanghai.

Military and naval spokesmen said land and water divisions of the Japanese military machine, acting in concert, had reduced Chinese opposition in the vicinity of Kiangyin forts, about 100 miles east and down the Yangtze river from Nanking.

They said that army units crossed the Yangtze river there under a curtaining naval barrage and had occupied Tsingking on the northern shore, preparatory to a north-westward rush that would parallel the Japanese advance on Nanking along the southern bank.

In Tokyo a foreign office spokesman implied that the United States and three other governments were attempting to mediate the Far Eastern war. The other powers were said to be England, Germany and Italy. Japanese officials continued to hope that China would ask for peace with the fall of Nanking, but indicated that China as yet had made no overtures.

Spanish Fronts Active

A dramatic renewal of large-scale aerial operations by both sides marked the Spanish conflict.

Barcelona and other towns of Spain's Government-held eastern coast and the Insurgents' Mallorca island aviation base searched the debris of blasted buildings reported to contain hundreds of bodies.

Twenty-four Government planes and 15 insurgent air raiders carried out almost simultaneous attacks on the widely separated objectives. Madrid also experienced a heavy artillery shelling.

With fronts shaking two of the world's fronts, French Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos arrived in Rumania from Poland on a mission to make Europe's peace more secure.

He declared his visit to Warsaw had demonstrated Franco-Polish relations were "unbreakable close" and that his stay in Rumania and other central European countries would establish mutual cooperation to further peace throughout the world.

Plans for the departure of the Duke of Aosta, cousin of King Vittorio Emanuele, on December 15 to take over the post of Viceroy of Ethiopia were announced in Rome.

The Duke was prepared to establish a court of his own with full princely pomp in the age-old conquered nation.

Soldier, aviator, explorer and businessman, the Duke was expected to help increase the prestige of Italian Ethiopia, whose conquest still is unrecognized by most nations.

United States Ambassador to Germany William E. Dodd declared in Berlin he had met with "real discouragement" in performing his duties. His resignation had just been announced.

Bequests Depend on Earnings

Philadelphia, Dec. 8 (AP).—The four grandchildren of the late Theophilus B. Stork are satisfied with the stipulation of his will that each is to receive an amount equal to what he or she earns for the next five years, their father said today.

Dr. Charles Wharton Stork, professor at Harcum Junior college, Bryn Mawr, said his children appreciated the thoughtful advice of their grandfather, a former Philadelphia attorney, that "happiness comes from one's own work" more than they did the financial benefits involved.

The will set a minimum of $1,500 and a maximum of $4,000 as the amount to match what each grandchild earns. After five years they will each receive a $4,000 annual income from the estate, estimated at nearly $300,000.

The grandchildren are Mrs. Rosalie Regan, 28, of New York, who writes poetry; Francis W. 26, a student of sculpture at Temple university; George Frederick, 24, English professor at the Thatcher school near Santa Barbara, California; and Karl Alexander, 10, a pupil at Penn Charter school, Philadelphia.

Their father said they felt the terms of the will "will be stimulating and shows the greatest personal interest. It places a real feeling of responsibility upon each one, with the exception of the young lad, who is not concerned with earning his living at the present time."

Miami, Fla., Dec. 8 (AP).—Police hunted today a woman who was reported to have fished wallets from three men in four days after asking directions "to the nearest church." Driving in a sedan with a man and two children the police said, she hailed the men on the sidewalk, left the car to speak to them and grabbed the wallets from their pockets and fled before they could defend themselves. Her first victim lost $2, the second $25 and the third had no money in his pocketbook.

STOCK REPORT

New York, Dec. 8 (AP).—The stock market crept into a modest rally today, stimulated by quiet strength among rail shares. Near noon advances of fractions to a point or more were predominant. There was a scattering of losers. Volume was restricted. Volume stocks were higher from the start while steels, after early hesitation pushed ahead in later dealings. Rubber, farm implement building material and merchandising shares were in some demand. Utilities and oils were backward. Brokers ascribed the advance to selective buying and a little short covering.

spective of their earlier occupations in life."

Claiming that the "unwritten law of supply and demand" is the best regulator of farm crops and their prices, the farmers entered a strong protest against passage of any crop control bill. Endorsing the principle of home rule, they protested against centralization of power by state or national governments.

An invitation was issued to the state officers to bring the 1938 state convention here in October.

Other resolutions opposed the basic and surplus plan of purchasing milk, urged Congress to regulate the value of money and reclaim the right to coin money and finally approved the cause of organized labor working toward better working conditions although they decline to affiliate with organized labor unions.

Mahone presided at the evening meeting and presented State President Mitzell who introduced Edward E. Kennedy, national secretary and Washington representative for state farmers' unions. Describing the nature, purpose and program of the Union he scored the farm bill now before Congress as "impossible to understand or administer." He said it puts the farmer in a straight jacket with a ceiling on production and a limit on prices. He backed a substitute bill which he says will be presented which would fix minimum prices on the basis of average cost of production.

Congressman Lemke was introduced as "the man we're going to put in the White House in 1941" by George D. Sheely. Scoring administration policies of "scarcity through destruction" with regard to farm crop control, the speaker declared that there would be no surplus if distribution and purchasing power would be handled properly. "The only thing we have a surplus of today in this country," he declared, "is the overproduction of insanity in Washington." He held the Federal land bank and the HOLC as the worst criminals in taking away thousands of farmers' homes through foreclosures and recommended his re-financing bill as the solution. He blamed the "corrupt patronage system" for the "weak-kneed congressmen" who admire his bills but won't vote for them.

"This country can't be half-slave and half free economically any more than it could racially before the Civil war," he concluded.

Forecast Passage of Farm Bill This Week

Washington, Dec. 8 (AP).—Administration lieutenants, encouraged by test votes in House and Senate, forecast today the long-debated crop control bill would win approval by both chambers this week.

Their optimism was caused by a double victory for the bill's supporters Tuesday:

1. The House turned down, 80 to 59, a proposal to eliminate marketing quotas for cotton. Leaders predicted they could defeat a similar attempt to remove provisions for compulsory control of corn.

2. The Senate defeated, 51 to 25, an amendment by Republican Leader McNary to limit the farm program's operation to three years.

Senate leaders said the greatest remaining danger would be a motion to send the bill back to committee. They declared, however, a count showed they could defeat it by a margin of 15 or 20 votes.

Foes of the bill disputed this figure. They said they had almost enough votes pledged to send back the measure, and that when the roll call came they might have enough.

Word has been received in Littlestown of the death of Dr. Lester Messinger, 46, Philadelphia, a native of Littlestown. Doctor Messinger underwent an operation for a ruptured appendix last Friday night at the Hahemann hospital, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Messinger, who reside at the edge of Littlestown, along the Littlestown-Baltimore highway.

Doctor Messinger died Monday morning. He was born in Littlestown and attended the public schools, being a graduate of the Littlestown high school. He pursued a course in pharmacy in the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy, from which institution he was graduated. He received his early training in the drug business with Dr. H. A. Stonisher, Littlestown druggist, for whom he worked during his school days. After graduation he opened a drug store in Olney, Philadelphia, where he has since resided.

He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Miss Dorothy Messinger, Philadelphia; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Messinger, of Littlestown, and one brother, Preston Messinger, of California.

PLANE CRASHES HOUSE
Austin, Tex., Dec. 8 (AP)—An airplane which plunged "like a streak of lightning" into two houses killed a "sleeping" 2-year-old boy and a Mexican army air corps pilot in northwest Austin's residential section Tuesday night. Leonard Albright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer D. Albright, and Capt. F. A. Avelino, 29, were killed when the plane ploughed into the Albright home. Three-year-old Spencer Albright III was bruised and Mrs. Albright, who had just put the children to bed, was stunned.

FORGETTERS CONSULT HUMAN MEMORY BOOK
Chicago (AP)—Students at the Lewis Institute of Technology here are letting Jack J. Pretula think for them.

Pretula started a card index of students who complained they were forgetting such vital details at their sweethearts' birthdays or when they last had a haircut.

All that embarrassment was eliminated. Instead of running around with strings tied to their fingers the students call Jack, who thumbs a card and comes up with the dope.

Sports Roundup

—By—
EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—Detroit fans are so indignant over the trade which sent Gerald Walker to Chicago the papers have had to expand their letters-to-the-editor departments. . . . Mickey Cochrane knows he stuck his chin out for he made Jimmy Dykes promise that he wouldn't play Walker on the Sox's first trip to Detroit. . . . (But Dykes says he will).

The Detroit Lions can't win many games. . . . The Red Wings are down in the dumps. . . . Joe Louis isn't so hot any more, but the auto city can claim all eleven places on the all-American panners' team. . . . Tiger fans began to growl when Goose Goslin got the air. . . . They roared when there was talk of changing the name of Navin field to Briggs stadium. . . . Now they're on the loose and talking boycott. . . . But if we know our Detroiters they'll probably be right back out there breaking attendance records next season.

If you believe in omens, the Chicago Bears may get kicked all around the field when they play Washington next Sunday. . . . A large picture of Bronko Magurski which adorned the walls of the New York Giants' offices crashed to the floor with a bang Tuesday. . . . Headwriters on Cleveland papers like 'em short and snappy. . . . One captioned an exhibition by burper Danno O'Mahoney: "Danno Is Floppo."

So far, Otto Bluege, the infielder, is the champion traveler of the big league baseball meetings. . . . At 3 o'clock in the afternoon, Jersey City sent him to Los Angeles and five minutes later Los Angeles traded him to Birmingham. . . . Old Stranger Lewis (he must be pushing 55) is wowing 'em in Paris.

The Terry-McCarthy pipe incident caused big laughs everywhere except with the Jints, who took it seriously. . . . Coach Pancho Snyder said: McCarthy had better not make any remarks about my pipe. . . . Any guy can manage a club stacked with Dickses, Gehrigs, etc.

FAIRFIELD NURSE PROTESTS PRISON PLAN
A criticism of the policies followed at Alcatraz prison, San Francisco, federal penal colony, as depicted in three articles recently appearing in a Philadelphia newspaper, is offered in a letter published today in the same newspaper by Effie B. Geigley, Fairfield, a registered nurse.

A portion of the letter is as follows: "I want to lift a protesting voice against the Alcatraz system—a system that seems to have been designed to perfect the devil in men. Isn't our whole attitude wrong? We show no toleration, nor regret. We demonstrate only a determination to even with the criminal, to make him pay to the full, to abuse him for the rest of his life, to make him suffer even more than he made others suffer. This is just cruelty, barbarism and brutality. We need less of these things."

DROWNS IN PACIFIC
Monterey, Calif., Dec. 8 (AP)—Authorities ordered an extended search for the body of Mrs. Sarah Flavin, 54, today, convinced the Pulitzer playwright's wife accidentally plunged to death in the Pacific. A canvas shoe found floating in the surf near Carmel Tuesday night was identified as hers by Martin Flavin, who won the Pulitzer prize for "The Criminal Code."

SCARED OUT OF EIGHT LIVES was this cat which ran onto a ledge 50 feet above the street, there to remain for two days before attracting notice. But to its rescue came Harry Bone, 23-year-old London storekeeper, who was lowered by rope from the roof, grasped the frightened animal, and carried it to safety as a crowd looked on.

QUATHAINS
Success
Success is nothing more nor less Than pride and peace of mind
And love and faith and friendliness
With labor all combined.

Heart and Mind
Reason must coldly play its part.
On what seems right its judgment swings.
It is the sympathetic heart
Which does the warm and foolish things.

Work and Play
A partnership are Work and Play.
For hand in hand the two must run.
The man who's out of work today
Finds playing not a bit of fun.

Gratitude
Hope is the light by which men see
The favors that are yet to be,
But gratitude must shine upon
The favors that have come and gone.

TWO POLITICAL PARTIES PLAN FOR CAMPAIGN

Harrisburg, Dec. 8 (AP)—The Democratic party's forthcoming drive to set up a "second New Deal" in Pennsylvania will start early next month with a series of Jackson day dinners attended by notable guests, among them National Chairman James A. Farley.

Farley has been invited to attend the dinner of the Old American club in Reading, just a month from tonight.

There are indications that the first scenes of the 1938 political campaign may be colored by legislative affairs. Governor Earle will return soon from Sweden and one of his first major decisions will be whether to call a special session of the legislature.

If he calls a special session it may deal with such problems as relief, anthracite and oil control.

Such a program might carry the General Assembly into March or even longer, some leaders say. The primary election will be in May, so the lawmakers would spend much of their campaign days in the state house.

While much of the electioneering will center around the governorship, the seat in the United States Senate, and the congressional delegation, a bitter struggle is certain over control of the Legislature. Democrats control both.

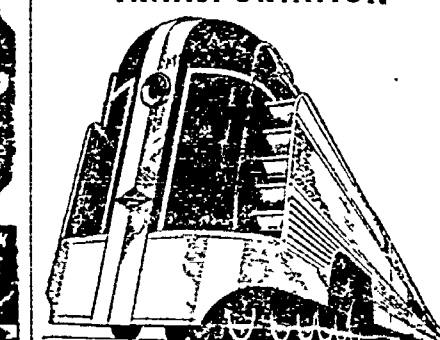

Republicans Discuss Finances
Harrisburg, Dec. 8 (AP)—Republican county chairmen and vice-chairmen met today with members of the national committee to discuss whether they should finance their party's 1938 campaign by popular subscription from the rank

The county representatives sat down with National Committeeman G. Mason Owlett, Mrs. Marjorie Scranton, of Scranton, national committeewoman; G. Edward Green, state chairman, and other party leaders, behind closed doors. The chairman's conference closed a two-day survey by party leaders of prospects for next year's gubernatorial and United States senatorial campaign.

The policy group of the state committee held an all-day closed session Tuesday to consider recommendations from the Republican Crusaders, based on 130,000 questionnaires sent out last spring and presented to the September meeting of the state committee at Altoona.

This report recommended that dissatisfied Democrats and others be asked to join the party, which was urged to change its name.

Another proposal received by the policy committee would set a $147,000 budget for the state organization "to provide a business-like organization 365 days in the year."

It's Odd, But It's Science
New York—Eric M. Matsner, M.D., medical director of the American Birth Control League, reports finding a case where birth control methods are increasing the population. It is among the "higher economic classes" of Sweden.

Italy, France and Germany, he says, are among the countries seeking to raise their birth rates by outlawing contraceptives.

"But the recent vital statistics from these countries," he writes, "well illustrates that it is impossible to force women to have children and tittle to legislate against contraception. Instead of the rapid rise in birth rate anticipated, there has been a practically continuous decline."

He credits Germany with getting a small rise by dowries for young married couples.

"In Sweden, where contraception is legal," he says, "the birth rate has also been declining, but there has been an interesting change in the differential birth rates. A marked increase in the number of births among the higher economic classes and a decrease among the lower has resulted in a complete reversal of the usual trends."

COLLEGIANS RUIN HEALTH, SAYS CHICAGO DEAN
Chicago (AP)—College students don't live right, says Aaron J. Brumbaugh, acting dean of the college at the University of Chicago.

"One of the important things all college students need to learn," he says, "is a conservation of physical energy."

"There seems to be a general pride these days in physical exhaustion, in neglecting principles of diet, in disregarding the need for regular exercise and in ignoring remedial practices essential to the correction of minor physical handicaps, such as posture."

Mormons constitute 90 per cent of the church members in Utah, 53 per cent in Idaho, 24 per cent in Nevada, 21 per cent in Wyoming and 11 per cent in Arizona.

An Evening Thought

Only those faults which we encounter in ourselves are insufferable to us in others.—Madame Swetchine.

Out of the Past

Happenings of days gone by as chronicled in The Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times the files reveal.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Were Graduated.—Eight members of the Teachers Training class of the United Brethren Sunday school were graduated at the Sunday evening church service, the following completing the course of study: Mrs. Lorena Riggs, Mrs. E. Hutchinson, Mrs. Tipton, Mrs. Harbaugh, Carrie Miller, Emma Howard, Mrs. Harry Geiselman, Miss Beulah Keckler. The program included addresses by Dr. J. A. Singmaster and Dr. W. H. Washington and Rev. Charles H. Gardner, music by a ladies quartette, and a solo by Mrs. Harry Trostle.

Diphtheria in Town.—Meade Williams, of York street, returned home Saturday evening from Sunbury suffering with some sort of throat trouble which was diagnosed as diphtheria when a physician was summoned.

Young People Surprise Friends.—A telegram received Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eberhart announced the marriage in Washington on Friday at noon of their daughter, Miss Eva Eberhart and Harry Hoffman, of this place.

Mr. Hoffman has been employed for some time at the garage of the Gettysburg Motor Car company and resigned his position there with the evident intention of accepting employment in Roanoke.

Sanders-Kane.—Curtis J. Kane, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lewis Kane, and Ruth E. Sanders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Sanders were married Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock mass at St. Francis Xavier church by Rev. Fr. Dougherty.

Muselman-Sheffer.—The beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Sheffer, of Hamiltontown township, was the scene of a pretty wedding Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock when their daughter, Iva Florence Sheffer and William Luther Muselman were married.

Mrs. W. K. Fleck, of Fairfield, played "O Promise Me." The attendants were Miss Clara K. Muselman, sister of the groom, and George W. Keefeauver of Middle-town, Maryland; Miss Hazel Eyer, Sabillasville, Maryland, and Stanley Sheffer, brother of the bride. The officiating clergyman was Rev. W. K. Fleck, pastor of both the bride and groom.

The bride was beautifully attired in lingerie cloth and carried bride's roses and chrysanthemums. The bride is a highly accomplished young lady, a teacher in the Sunday school and a member of the church choir. The groom is the youngest son of John M. Muselman and is the obliging clerk in his father's store.

Veterans Elect.—At a regular meeting of Corporal Skelly Post 9, Grand Army of the Republic on Monday evening the following officers were elected for the coming year: Commander, William T. Ziegler; senior vice commander, Theodore McAllister; junior vice commander, W. H. Lott; quartermaster, H. W. Lightner; surgeon, Dr. C. E. Goldsborough; chaplain, Dr. J. A. TOO FAT

THE bears ate an excellent meal considering how sleepy they were. Sometimes they yawned between bites—but they always look the bites!

Sometimes they ate with their eyes half-closed, but they ate! "We'll go to the cave now," growled Honey Bear as Willy Nilly gave her a nudge when he felt she was about to fall in sound sleep once more.

"All right," Willy Nilly agreed, "we'll all go with you and wish you a good sleep." But when Honey Bear tried to get out of the door she could not manage it.

"I'm too fat," she murmured. "I think I'll have to stay here all winter."

"You wouldn't be comfortable here," said Willy Nilly. "We'd be disturbing you coming around and getting food that is packed away."

"If we're going to be stuck somewhere the best place is one that is full of food," muttered Blacky Bear sleepily.

"Come on, come on," urged Willy Nilly. "Draw a long breath, Honey Bear, and squeeze through the door. Here, I'll step outside and we'll all pull you out."

Rip took hold of Willy Nilly's coat tails and Sweet Face grabbed hold of Rip and they all pulled until Honey Bear managed to get outside. They did the same with the other bears.

"Once, I remember, we got stuck after we'd eaten all the food. The trailer would have been different, for we would never have grown hungry there," repeated Honey Bear.

"You won't need any more food. You'll be able to sleep well on the fat and strength you have this year!" laughed Willy Nilly.

BIRTHPLACE OF GEORGE III

TO BE APARTMENT HOUSE

London (AP).—Norfolk House, town house of the Dukes of Norfolk since the 17th century, is giving way to London's current craze for streamlined flats.

The present Duke of Norfolk, who has used the house only for coronation occasions as hereditary earl marshal, has sold the mansion to a firm of contractors the Modernist apartments with curved glass windows and the best of what London calls central heating probably will take its place.

The price was not announced, but the Duke, in 1930, withdrew the house from auction when a bid of $1,250,000 was reached.

George III, against whom the American colonies revolted, was born in a back room of Norfolk House in June, 1738.

NO SUBSTITUTE FOR FAITH

DON'T laugh at faith! It is the one thing that inspires life, that puts breath into its being, and which supports its last hope.

I like that definition of faith as suggested in the Bible—"the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things unseen."

Faith lifts us up when we grow faint, whispers ever to us to go on, and feeds our hungry hearts when we grow faint. It comforts us in sorrow, cheers us in defeat, and walks beside us when we tread the lonely way.

Faith keeps us brave in the midst of fears, and keeps us from losing confidence in ourselves when others lose confidence in us, and lights up the way where the road is rough and all direction signs have been removed.

Faith directs us to the right road ahead. Without this faith of ours we could not move a step. Unconsciously we live by faith.

It's faith that gives to us our friends, that cements every purpose that we adopt to a plan of life, and it is faith that leads us on from experience to experience, and which rounds out our growth.

We go to our bed at night, steeped in faith, believing that we will awake. We strive against difficulties because we have faith in an ultimate happy achievement. We have faith in a Supreme Being, because we see the good earth that he has created. We look into the future with the eyes of faith, confident that it will unfold itself to us in its happiest form.

There must be faith, even in Nature—for it dies, to live again! How can anyone look into the heavens, or wander the fields, drinking in the wealth of beauty that is evident on every hand, without owning a supreme faith in all that is a part of this brief little span that we call life?

No, there is no substitute for faith. It is the one essential by which we live, by which we move and have our being.

DARE TO DREAM

By Alice Marie Dodge

The Characters

Nelda, an ambitious, dark-eyed, dark-haired girl, has had to leave college because of finances.

Reck, blond, dashing and wealthy, insists on getting a lift from Nelda at a filling station.

Bill, tanned, blue-eyed and disapproving, is left high and dry by Reck, after meeting Nelda.

Chapter Two

THE OLD ESTRADO RANCHO

They drove in silence for a space, going past apple orchards, past fields, plowed and sown, past hovels, past mansions. The day was warm for mid-December, and the ride through the sweet, clean air pleasant.

"Why does Bill have to drive that old wreck?" Nelda asked suddenly. "Is he poor?"

"I guess so," said Reck. "I know very little about him."

Their course now was on a wide, smooth highway through the pine-studded Santa Cruz mountains. They fell into conversation about themselves, about their collegemates, and it seemed no time at all before Reck said:

"That's our shack—on the right." He pointed to a modern, white structure built on the Spanish hacienda type with red tile roof and poled balconies. Rosebushes climbed gracefully on the walls and hung in festoons over trellises. A grueled between two rose hedges led to the house. A board swinging in the breeze over a pair of scroiled iron gates at the entrance of the estate carried the name Las Rosas. At the rear was a private golf course.

"Some shack!" Nelda commented after she'd taken in its beauty and magnitude. It was plain to be seen that the place belonged to some one of means. She'd heard that wealthy people were coming to live in Pajaro Valley because of its balmy climate.

"Come in and meet Mother," Reck invited.

There was no resisting his flashing smile and eager arm at her elbow. She found herself in a tastefully furnished room bowing to a patrician-looking woman whom Reck gayly addressed as Mater.

Mrs. Reckless rang for tea and served it on a table near the fireplace where the rich silver reflected the firelight. Out of the corners of her eyes Nelda was aware that the woman was studying her.

Nevertheless she was gracious to Nelda up to a point. That point was reached when Reck left them alone for a few minutes.

"We have many plans for Earl," she said and allowed her patrician glance to rest meaningfully upon Nelda. "We want him to travel for a couple of years before he thinks of marriage or even becoming engaged."

Nelda knew she was being told to keep her hands off the Reckless heir. She wanted to shout, "I never saw your son before today. Don't think I'm going to snatch him away from you!" But the rush of emotion that urged the speech died under the older woman's cool scrutiny and a feeble, "Yes."

"Yes," Mrs. Reckless repeated and seemed visibly to withdraw.

"I must be going," Nelda rose in nervous confusion, hating herself for losing her poise before this woman.

There's Not Enough Money? Nelda had only 10 miles to go before she would reach the Estrado Rancho. As she drove along her thoughts were all on the problem confronting her, racing, doubling, tumbling over each other. Rebellion ran, a piercing thread, through them. Oh, why did she have to leave college? She had always done what she wanted from babyhood when her father spoiled her and gave her everything she desired.

"Why don't you run away?" one part of her demanded.

"Coward!" another part of her scoffed.

There came to her a memory of the detached pity she'd felt when one of her classmates was forced to leave college for financial reasons.

At the time Nelda couldn't imagine such a tragedy ever happening to herself. It didn't seem possible that the vivid mental pictures she'd drawn of the studio in which she would live after graduation wouldn't come true. From grammar school days she'd planned to be a commercial artist. A highly paid commercial artist who could command the luxuries of life.

But now all those plans had stopped like a clock shattered by dynamite. The bad news had come yesterday in a letter from Lella, her brother Stan's wife. It read:

Dear Nelda:

There is not enough money to send both you and Jack through college. After talking it over, Stan and I decided it was best for you instead of Jack to come home. You know Jack couldn't run the ranch if some one held a pistol to his head. Furthermore, he couldn't take care of your mother as you can.

That Laura Sweeny who is supposed to take care of her is useless and snooty. I think she is making eyes at Uncle Sam.

P. S. We need the roadster here. Get home with it as soon as you can.

The Fire

To herself Nelda said, "Lella has had a temper like a spanked cat ever since the fire."

The Barries dated everything from the fire that had totally destroyed Stephen Barrie's large hardware store. B. F. and A. F. they called it. Before the fire. After the fire. To all of them it was the dividing line between affluence and chaos.

By some ghastly oversight the insurance had lapsed just three days before the conflagration.

The business had provided a handsome living for the entire family, including Stan who had been general manager. Stephen Barrie didn't have enough money to start over again. Broken in health and spirit, he moved his family to a ranch in the Pajaro Valley that had descended to his wife from her parents. It had been slowly run by tenants for nearly half a century.

A deep country peace enveloped the rancho as Nelda approached it. The wind mill turned intermittently in a lazy breeze. There was a brooding air about the old adobe house, a relic of a vanished, picturesque day. It was an oblong two-story building with a red tile roof. To Nelda it looked more crumbling than when she'd last seen it. From the cracked chimney gray plumes of smoke were ascending.

"You'll never be able to clean the house," Mrs. Barrie had said from her wheel chair to which she was doomed for life because of an automobile accident.

"I'll have it thoroughly disinfected and overhauled before we move in," Stephen Barrie had promised.

Stephen Barrie lived only three weeks after he moved to the country. (Copyright, 1937, Alice Marie Dodge)

OLD-FASHIONED "BIG APPLE"

Titusville, Pa. (AP)—Sixty years ago folks in Titusville were proud of their oil. So proud, in fact, someone wrote a song. "The petroleum court dance." Issued instructions for the dance were: "The floor should be well greased with crude oil, and the hall lighted entirely with native gas; gentlemen should wear their oil boots. Refreshments will consist entirely of lubricating food, such as benzine, candles, croton and castor oils."

NEW COLD WAVE HEADING EAST; 6 DIE IN STATE

(By The Associated Press)

Coasting accidents and sub-freezing temperatures left six dead today as a new cold wave from the west threatened Pennsylvania.

Weather Observer W. B. Brotzman, of Pittsburgh, said temperatures might rise slowly from a low of 13 degrees during the day, but promised a renewal of snowstorms that spread a white blanket over the state in the last three days.

Four-year-old Robert Walker was killed by an automobile while coasting with his nurse in Meadville and Nancy Rush died a few minutes after her sled crashed into a manhole cover in Mount Oliver, near Pittsburgh.

The Walker lad's nurse, Emily Burge, 18, was critically hurt, and a companion of the Rush girl, 16-year-old Janet Vavin, was injured.

The coroner's office attributed the death of Edward C. Jones, 62, of Pittsburgh, to low temperatures. Jones collapsed on the way to work and died a few hours later.

Coroner James Jones, of Washington county, blamed exposure for the deaths of 64-year-old Harry Rankin and an unidentified youth. Rankin died after being rescued from an icy stream into which he had fallen and the youth was found along a highway.

Twelve-year-old Samuel Lauder died in an accident indirectly attributable to the cold wave. Coroner H. B. West said the lad fell while helping to push a milk truck from a snowdrift and was crushed to death as the machine backed over his body.

With the exception of the Philadelphia area, snow covered the entire state and in mountainous sections ranged to a depth of one foot.

More than three thousand state highway department workers labored to clear the roads of ice and snowdrifts, whipped up by gale-like winds. All roads were reported passable, but slippery.

LOSES RACE WITH DEATH

Philadelphia, Dec. 8 (AP)—A trolley lost a high speed race with death Tuesday. The "motorman" covered six blocks without stopping after Samuel Corrigou, 68, slumped in his seat, but that Corrigou was dead on reaching a hospital.

The number of rights that can be sold to a popular work of fiction are many. The most profitable are American and English magazine rights, American and English book rights and motion picture rights.

SANTA and the WHITE FOX BY SIGRID ARNE

THE STORY SO FAR:

Under the very nose of Santa's tin soldiers the white fox steals Helga, the doll of the North, while Santa and his Toyland are asleep.

Chapter Nine THE FOX'S HOME

THE white fox chuckled as he ran along over the snowy white hills carrying Helga in his teeth. She laughed with him. It seemed so wonderful to be out again in the snowy fields.

They ran up a mountain of snow between fir trees, and at the top the fox ran under a ledge of ice, through an ice gate and into a great, big room. There, on a chair of white satin, he put Helga down.

"Where are we?" asked Helga.

"In my home," said the fox. He tapped three times on the floor with his fore-paw. A little door opened at his feet and up some steps walked two neat black moles with little white aprons tied about their waists.

Dainty Dishes

"Dinner," said the white fox.

"Yes, sir," said the moles and went back down the steps below the floor. The white fox went over to a carved walnut chair which stood by a tiny, glass bush that grew right up out of the floor. He tweaked the top leaf and suddenly the room was filled with music as the leaves of the bush twirled on their stems.

"My music box," said the fox, smiling and showing all his teeth. He seemed proud of his home.

"How lovely," said Helga.

In a few minutes the black moles came back up the stairs in the floor and six other moles followed carrying steaming silver dishes. They spread a table and pulled up two chairs: one dainty chair for Helga and the big walnut one for the fox.

He uncovered the silver dishes. There were creamed mushrooms no bigger than cranberries for Helga. There were tiny, stuffed tomatoes no bigger than your thumb-nail; hot rolls the size of a pearl, and last of all, tiny strawberries, just a doll's size.

A Very Cruel Fox

"Now eat, and be happy," said the fox.

He was strange, wasn't he? Usually foxes like to play with other foxes. But not this one. As Santa said, he had stolen two dolls before he ran off with Helga.

You see, he was the greatest white fox of the North. He could run faster than any other fox. He had sharper, whiter teeth and bigger, blacker eyes that could see farther than any other fox. So all the other foxes, and even the bears and the reindeers, feared him and walked the other way when they saw him.

And he was known as such a very cruel white fox that he never got any Christmas gifts. But all this Helga didn't know.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes these good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Terms: Cash.

DON'T laugh at faith! It is the one thing that inspires life, that puts breath into its being, and which supports its last hope.I like that definition of faith as suggested in the Bible—"the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things unseen."Faith lifts us up when we fall, whispers ever to us to go on, and feeds our hungry hearts when we grow faint. It comforts us in sorrow, cheers us in defeat, and walks beside us when we tread the lonely way.Faith keeps us brave in the midst of fears, and keeps us from losing confidence in ourselves when others lose confidence in us, and lights up the way where the road is rough and all direction signs have been removed. Faith directs us to the right road ahead.Without this faith of ours we could not move a step. Unconsciously we live by faith.It's faith that gives to us our friends, that cements every purpose that we adopt to a plan of life, and it is faith that leads us on from experience to experience, and which rounds out our growth.We go to our bed at night, steeped in faith, believing that we will awake. We strive against difficulties, because we have faith in an ultimate happy achievement. We have faith in a Supreme Being, because we see the good earth that he has created. We look into the future with the eyes of faith, confident that it will unfold itself to us in its happiest form.

There must be faith, even in Nature—for it dies, to live again!

How can anyone look into the heavens, or wander the fields, drinking in the wealth of beauty that is evident on every hand, without owning a supreme faith in all that is a part of this brief little span that we call life?No, there is no substitute for faith. It is the one essential by which we live, by which we move and have our being.

DARE TO DREAM

By Alice Marie Dodge

The Characters

Nelda, an ambitious, dark-eyed, dark-haired girl, has had to leave college because of finances.Reck, blond, dashing and wealthy, insists on getting a lift from Nelda at a filling station.Bill, tanned, blue-eyed and disapproving, is left high and dry by Reck, after meeting Nelda.

Chapter Two

THE OLD ESTRADO RANCHO
They drove in silence for a space, going past apple orchards, past fields, plowed and sown, past hovels, past mansions. The day was warm for mid-December, and the ride through the sweet, clean air pleasant."Why does Bill have to drive that old wreck?" Nelda asked suddenly.
"Is he poor?""I guess so," said Reck. "I know very little about him."Their course now was on a wide, smooth highway through the pine-studded Santa Cruz mountains.
They fell into conversation about themselves, about their collegemates and it seemed no time at all before Reck said:"That's our shack—on the right."
He pointed to a modern white structure built on the Spanish hacienda type with red tile roof and poled balconies. Rosebushes climbed gracefully on the walls and hung in festi-oons over trellises. A gravelled drive between two rose hedges led to the house. A board swinging in the breeze over a pair of scrolled iron gates at the entrance of the estate carried the name Las Rosas. At the rear was a private golf course."Some shack!" Nelda commented after she'd taken in its beauty and magnitude. It was plain to be seen that the place belonged to some one of means. She'd heard that wealthy people were coming to live in Pajaro Valley because of its balmy climate."Come in and meet Mother," Reck invited.There was no resisting his flashing smile and eager arm at her elbow. She found herself in a tastefully furnished room bowing to a patrician-looking woman whom Reck gaily addressed as Mater.Mrs. Reckless rang for tea and served it on a table near the fireplace where the rich silver reflected the firelight. Out of the corners of her eyes Nelda was aware that the woman was studying her.Nevertheless she was gracious to Nelda up to a point. That point was reached when Reck left them alone for a few minutes."We have many plans for Earl," she said and allowed her patrician glance to rest meaningly upon Nelda. "We want him to travel for a couple of years before he thinks of marriage or even becoming engaged."Nelda knew she was being told to keep her hands off the Reckless heir.
She wanted to shout, "I never saw your son before today. Don't think I'm going to snatch him away from you!" But the rush of emotion that urged the speech died under the older woman's cool scrutiny and outward she uttered only a feeble,
"Yes?""Yes," Mrs. Reckless repeated and seemed visibly to withdraw."I—I must be going," Nelda rose in nervous confusion, hating herself for losing her poise before this woman."There's Not Enough Money!"
Nelda had only 10 miles to go before she would reach the Estrado Rancho. As she drove along her thoughts were all on the problem confronting her, racing, doubling, tumbling over each other. Rebellion ran, a piercing thread, through them. Oh, why did she have to leave college? She had always done what she wanted from babyhood when her father spoiled her and gave her everything she desired."Why don't you run away?" one part of her demanded.
"Coward!" another part of her scolded.There came to her a memory of the detached pity she'd felt when one of her classmates was forced to leave college for financial reasons.
At the time Nelda couldn't imagine such a tragedy ever happening to herself. It didn't seem possible thatthe vivid mental pictures she'd drawn of the studio in which she would live after graduation wouldn't come true. From grammar school days she'd planned to be a commercial artist. A highly paid commercial artist who could command the luxuries of life.But now all those plans had stopped like a clock shattered by dyma-mite. The bad news had come yesterday in a letter from Lella, her brother Stan's wife. It read:Dear Nelda:
There is not enough money to send both you and Jack through college. After talking it over, Stan and I decided it was best for you instead of Jack to come home.
You know Jack couldn't run the ranch if some one held a pistol to his head. Furthermore, he couldn't take care of your mother as you can.That Laura Sweeney who is supposed to take care of her is useless and snooty. I think she is making eyes at Uncle Ham.Lella.
P. S. We need the roadster here.
Get home with it as soon as you can.The Fire To herself Nelda said, "Lella has had a temper like a spanked cat ever since the fire."The Barries dated everything from the fire that had totally destroyed Stephen Barrie's large hardware store. B. F. and A. F. they called it. Before the fire. After the fire.
To all of them it was the dividing line between affluence and chaos.
By some ghastly oversight the insurance had lapsed just three days before the conflagration.The business had provided a handsome living for the entire family, including Stan who had been general manager. Stephen Barrie didn't have enough money to start over again. Broken in health and spirit, he moved his family to a ranch in the Pajaro Valley that had descended to his wife from her parents. It had been slackly run by tenants for nearly half a century.A deep country peace enveloped the rancho as Nelda approached it.
The wind mill turned intermittently in a lazy breeze. There was a brooding air about the old adobe house, a relic of a vanished, picturesque day. It was an oblong two-story building with a red tile roof.
To Nelda it looked more crumbling than when she'd last seen it. From the cracked chimney gray plumes of smoke were ascending."You'll never be able to clean the house," Mrs. Barrie had said from her wheel chair to which she was doomed for life because of an automobile accident."I'll have it thoroughly disinfected and overhauled before we move in," Stephen Barrie had promised.Stephen Barrie lived only three weeks after he moved to the country.

cord.

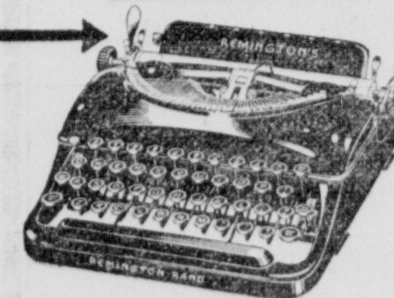

OLD-FASHIONED "BIG APPLE"

Tusville, Pa. (AP).—Sixty years ago folks in Tusville were proud of their oil. So proud, in fact, someone wrote a song, "The petroleum court dance." Issued instructions for the dance were: "The floor should be well greased with crude oil, and the hall lighted entirely with native gas; gentlemen should wear their oil boots. Refreshments will consist entirely of lubricating food, such as benzine, candles, crotin and castor oils."NEW COLD WAVE
HEADING EAST;
6 DIE IN STATE

(By The Associated Press)

Coasting accidents and sub-freezing temperatures left six dead today as a new cold wave from the west threatened Pennsylvania.Weather Observer W. B. Brotzman, of Pittsburgh, said temperatures might rise slowly from a low of 13 degrees during the day, but promised a renewal of snowstorms that spread a white blanket over the state in the last three days.Four-year-old Robert Walker was killed by an automobile while coasting with his nurse in Meadville and Nancy Rush died a few minutes after her sled crashed into a manhole cover in Mount Oliver, near Pittsburgh.The Walker lad's nurse, Emily Burga, 18, was critically hurt, and a companion of the Rush girl, 16-year-old Janet Vavin, was injured.The coroner's office attributed the death of Edward C. Jones, 62, of Pittsburgh, to low temperatures.
Jones collapsed on the way to work and died a few hours later.Coroner James Jones, of Washington county, blamed exposure for the deaths of 64-year-old Harry Rankin and an unidentified youth.
Rankin died after being rescued from an icy stream into which he had fallen and the youth was found along a highway.Twelve-year-old Samuel Lauder died in an accident indirectly attributable to the cold wave. Coroner H. B. West said the lad fell while helping to push a milk truck from a snowdrift and was crushed to death as the machine backed over his body.With the exception of the Philadelphia area, snow covered the entire state and in mountainous sections ranged to a depth of one foot.More than three thousand state highway department workers labored to clear the roads of ice and snow-drifts, whipped up by gale-like winds.
All roads were reported passable, but slippery.

WHITE FOX

BY SIGRID ARNE

THE STORY SO FAR:
Under the very nose of Santa's tin soldiers the white fox steals Helga, the doll of the North, while Santa and his Toyland are asleep.Chapter Nine
THE FOX'S HOMETHE white fox chuckled as he ran along over the snowy white hills carrying Helga in his teeth.She laughed with him. It seemed so wonderful to be out again in the snowy fields.They ran up a mountain of snow between fir trees, and at the top the fox ran under a ledge of ice, through an ice gate and into a great, big room. There, on a chair of white satin, he put Helga down.

"Where are we?" asked Helga.

"In my home," said the fox. He tapped three times on the floor with his fore-paw. A little door opened at his feet and up some steps walked two neat black moles with little white aprons tied about them.

Dainty Dishes

"Dinner," said the white fox.

"Yes, sir," said the moles and went back down the steps below the floor. The white fox went over to a carved walnut chair which stood by a tiny, glass bush that grew right up out of the floor. He tweaked the top leaf and suddenly the room was filled with music as the leaves of the bush twirled on their stems."My music box," said the fox, smiling and showing all his teeth.
He seemed proud of his home.

"How lovely," said Helga.

In a few minutes the black moles came back up the stairs in the floor and six other moles followed carrying steaming silver dishes. They spread a table and pulled up two chairs: one daintychair for Helga and the big walnut one for the fox.He uncovered the silver dishes.
There were creamed mushrooms no bigger than cranberries for Helga. There were tiny, stuffed tomatoes no bigger than your thumb-nail; hot rolls the size of a pearl, and last of all, tiny strawberries, just a doll's size.A Very Cruel Fox
"Now eat, and be happy," said the fox.He was strange, wasn't he?
Usually foxes like to play with other foxes. But not this one. As Santa said, he had stolen two dolls before he ran off with Helga.You see, he was the greatest white fox of the North. He could run faster than any other fox. He had shaper, whiter teeth and bigger, blacker eyes that could see farther than any other fox. So all the other foxes, and even the bears and the reindeers, feared him and walked the other way when they saw him.And he was known as such a very cruel white fox that he never got any Christmas gifts. But all this Helga didn't know.

WAKE UP YOUR

the Morning Rarin' to GoThe liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest.
It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks pink.Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere

BIGLER CAGE OUTLOOK GOOD

Prospects for two strong cage teams at Biglerville high school during the coming season are good with a wealth of veteran material remaining for both boys' and girls' teams.

Coach Bernard Thrush is having a difficult time selecting his starting lineup from the following: Enck, Oyler, McCauslin and Wiseman, forwards; Taylor and Raffensperger, centers; Captain Wentzel, Reinecker, Roth and Houck, guards.

Enck, Oyler and Wentzel are the veterans of the squad while Taylor and Raffensperger saw considerable action last season. Kane, Ecker and Wolfe were lost via graduation last spring.

Members of the squad are Bringman, Black, Cook, Enck, Funk, Group, Hallabaugh, Houck, Lawver, Linard, McCauslin, Grayson Miller, Jack Miller, Raymond Miller, Oyler, Peters, Stine, Raffensperger, Reinecker, Roth, Taylor, Wentzel, Wilkinson and Wiseman. Wilmer Diehl was elected manager of the team at a student council meeting Tuesday.

With the exception of two players the entire girls' squad remains from last season. Only Dill, forward, and Routsong, guard, were lost to the squad.

Coach S. A. Ehlman has been using the following combination in drills: Taylor, Shue and P. Welkert, forwards; and E. Welkert, Kane and Carbaugh, guards.

Biglerville will open its season next Tuesday evening when the Central Pennsylvania business college will be met at Biglerville. Both boys and girls will play.

Farm Calendar

The first co-operative bull association was organized in Pennsylvania 20 years ago. There are now 55 associations in 28 counties with 388 members owning 205 bulls. Dairy specialists of the Pennsylvania State college report that 5,017 of the 8,137 cows in the 388 herds are daughters of association sires.

Litter Helps Houses
Litter serves three useful purposes in poultry houses. The litter is used as bedding to aid sanitation, to absorb moisture, and to provide insulation of the floor, according to poultry specialists.

Contests Attract Attention
Corn husking contests are increasing in number in Pennsylvania. They are developing into sports events which attract large crowds. Stanley Stauffer, Lancaster county, is the new state champion. He husked 21.06 bushels in 80 minutes.

Select Show Vegetables
Quality and condition are the outstanding points of consideration in selecting vegetables for exhibit, say vegetable gardeners. The vegetable should be uniform in size, true to variety, and free from injury and defects.

Spraying Saves Fruit
In each of the 13 years that spray information has been given by the Pennsylvania State college agricultural extension service, fruit growers who followed all recommendations have averaged less than five per cent disease. Control of insects in completely sprayed orchards has resulted in 97.9 per cent clean apples.

Farmers Dress Turkeys
Pennsylvania turkey growers sell a good portion of their crop directly to the consumers and dress many of the birds on their farms, poultry specialists report.

Make Cakes and Cookies Now for Holiday Season

Already the women of Adams county are starting preparations for the greatest feast of the year, says Miss Mildred L. Adams, home economics extension representative of this county.

It is possible to do much of the Christmas preparation before hand. This lessens the time the homemaker needs to spend in the kitchen on this day of days. Fruit cakes and puddings are part of the work which can be done in advance. This gives time for them to mellow and ripen. Aging is the secret for flavor in these products.

If you have a pressure cooker, use it for steaming cakes and puddings. The process requires just about one-fourth as much time as is required in ordinary steaming. Cool cakes thoroughly before storing in air-tight tins.

An excellent way to store puddings is to tie a clean muslin cloth over the top of the pan and store in a cool place. When they are ready to be served simply reheat for a short time before serving.

Cookie making is one activity where the whole family may assist. Children will be interested in cutting the fruit and nuts, father will be thrilled to add the decorations. Cookies containing nuts and fruits keep much better than plain ones.

You will probably want to decorate a few cookies for the children's stockings, to use in trimming the trees, or as gifts. Cut some in shape of a Christmas tree, cover with white frosting, and outline the edges with tiny silver candy balls. Cut others with a doughnut cutter. Frost with a white frosting and decorate with green citron leaves and silver ball berries to represent mistletoe, or green citron leaves and cinnamon berries for holly.

The small children would be glad to find Santa himself in the tops of their stockings. Make a pattern from cardboard and cut around it with the point of a knife. Cover with red frosting and make his eyes, nose, whiskers, and the trimmings of his suit with white.

If you have not used the new circulars on "Christmas Puddings and Cakes" and "Filling the Holiday Cookie Jar," published by the Pennsylvania State college, you may get copies from the County Agricultural Extension office or by writing Miss Adams.

Farm Calendar

The first co-operative bull association was organized in Pennsylvania 20 years ago. There are now 55 associations in 28 counties with 388 members owning 205 bulls. Dairy specialists of the Pennsylvania State college report that 5,017 of the 8,137 cows in the 388 herds are daughters of association sires.

Litter Helps Houses
Litter serves three useful purposes in poultry houses. The litter is used as bedding to aid sanitation, to absorb moisture, and to provide insulation of the floor, according to poultry specialists.

Contests Attract Attention
Corn husking contests are increasing in number in Pennsylvania. They are developing into sports events which attract large crowds. Stanley Stauffer, Lancaster county, is the new state champion. He husked 21.06 bushels in 80 minutes.

Select Show Vegetables
Quality and condition are the outstanding points of consideration in selecting vegetables for exhibit, say vegetable gardeners. The vegetable should be uniform in size, true to variety, and free from injury and defects.

Spraying Saves Fruit
In each of the 13 years that spray information has been given by the Pennsylvania State college agricultural extension service, fruit growers who followed all recommendations have averaged less than five per cent disease. Control of insects a completely sprayed orchards has resulted in 97.9 per cent clean apples.

Farmers Dress Turkeys
Pennsylvania turkey growers sell good portion of their crop directly to the consumers and dress many of the birds on their farms, poultry specialists report.

Make Cakes and Cookies Now for Holiday Season

Already the women of Adams county are starting preparations for the greatest feast of the year, says Miss Mildred L. Adams, home economics extension representative of this county.

It is possible to do much of the Christmas preparation before hand. This lessens the time the homemaker needs to spend in the kitchen on this day of days. Fruit cakes and puddings are part of the work which can be done in advance. This gives time for them to mellow and ripen. Aging is the secret for flavor in these products.

If you have a pressure cooker, use it for steaming cakes and puddings. The process requires just about one-fourth as much time as is required in ordinary steaming. Cool cakes thoroughly before storing in air-tight tins.

An excellent way to store puddings is to tie a clean muslin cloth over the top of the pan and store in a cool place. When they are ready to be served simply reheat for a short time before serving.

Cookie making is one activity where the whole family may assist. Children will be interested in cutting the fruit and nuts, father will be thrilled to add the decorations. Cookies containing nuts and fruits keep much better than plain ones.

You will probably want to decorate a few cookies for the children's stockings, to use in trimming the trees, or as gifts. Cut some in shape of a Christmas tree, cover with white frosting, and outline the edges with tiny silver candy balls. Cut others with a doughnut cutter. Frost with white frosting and decorate with green citron leaves and silver ball berries to represent mistletoe, or green citron leaves and cinnamon berries for holly.

The small children would be glad to find Santa himself in the tops of their stockings. Make a pattern from cardboard and cut around it with the point of a knife. Cover with red frosting and make his eyes, nose, whiskers, and the trimmings of his suit with white.

If you have not used the new circulars on "Christmas Puddings and Cakes" and "Pilling the Holiday Cookie Jar," published by the Pennsylvania State college, you may get copies from the County Agricultural Extension office or by writing Miss Adams.

ANTI-TRUST LAW CHANGE STUDIED AS BUSINESS AID

Washington, Dec. 8 (AP)—The principal problem in revising the anti-trust laws, Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said today, is "the effect legislation would have upon business at the present moment."

He conferred Tuesday with Attorney General Cummings on anti-trust legislation, which may be a major item on the administration program for the 1938 session of Congress.

After O'Mahoney said he was hopeful that action would be taken on the bill proposed by him and Senator Borah (R-Idaho) for federal licensing of corporations engaged in interstate commerce.

"I recognize the fact that when the word 'licensing' is mentioned, a lot of people think of a dog collar," O'Mahoney said.

"This bill, however, would set business free, because for the last 50 years we have been creating boards and commissions and giving them discretionary authority over business. This bill would not give discretionary authority to anybody."

President Roosevelt's lieutenants have given no direct indication whether they would support this specific bill. Some observers believe a board congressional investigation of monopolistic practices may be proposed before legislation is asked.

While on his Florida trip, the President conferred on the subject with Assistant Attorney General Robert Jackson, who is prosecuting several anti-trust suits.

Under the Borah-O'Mahoney bill, corporations doing business in interstate commerce would have to procure license from the federal trade commission.

That agency now is preparing for an investigation—at Mr. Roosevelt's order—into a "marked increase" in living costs. Higher prices, the President said, are "attributable in part to monopolistic practices and other unwholesome methods of competition."

The industrial situation was mentioned at Mr. Roosevelt's press conference Tuesday by one reporter who asked the chief executive: "The business recession is getting worse. What are you planning to do about it?"

Mr. Roosevelt, declaring that the statement was an assumption, said he did not wish to tie his hands by announcing a program.

Under the plan the government refunds purchasers 50 per cent of all freight charges on cattle moved from the dry areas to other Alberta districts or outside the province.

Growing Conflicts in Europe May Dim Christmas Peace Message

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—Europe will have to strain her ears to catch the message of peace on earth this Christmas, because of the din from the rapidly-growing conflict as the nations divide into two blocs, with a third group of neutrals sitting anxiously on the side.

There is no great threat of an immediate general upheaval, but nations are looking with apprehension to the future.

Britain and France, as leaders of the world democracy, are doing everything in their power to halt the formation of hostile alliances. They hold that such blocs breed war with certainty. Because of this they have been striving to persuade Fascist chieftains Mussolini and Hitler to join in a general effort to rehabilitate Europe and safeguard peace.

But it is difficult to pull a man away from the gaming table when he is winning—and the Fascist pair has been gaining at the expense of the democratic governments. They elect to pursue their lucky stars.

Meantime, both groups are rushing rearmament programs never before undertaken outside war-time. The statesmen of the Anglo-French group and of the Italo-German brotherhood have attacked their respective problems with feverish energy in recent weeks. The capitals of these four major powers are seething today, and here is the picture they see:

The anti-German fraternity of many nations, formed just after the World war and at about the time that the stork fetched baby fascism, shows disaffections. France and England are more than anxious. Specifically:

Belgium has renounced her alliances and become a dyed-in-the-wool neutral. Switzerland and the Scandinavian countries are on the bench, too.

Portugal, Britain's oldest ally and a participant in the World war, has a totalitarian dictatorship and has been working overtime to help the Spanish insurgents win under the leadership of Fascist Generalissimo Franco. He is heavily backed by Hitler and Mussolini and proposes to establish a Fascist dictatorship if and when he wins the war.

Over in eastern Europe, Poland—once staunch French ally—has a soft of dictatorship and is flirting with Hitler; the Little Entente, which France constructed with such care as a defense against Germany, gives many signs of splitting up. Yugoslavia and Rumania are leaning towards the Fascist set-up, and Czechoslovakia, the third member, while still loyal to France, has a dire problem on her hands in a big German population which is Nazi.

France is energetically trying to repair this damage, and she and England are trying to work out some plan which will satisfy the Fascist claims (such as Hitler's demand for a return of German colonies), and still leave democracy with some of its tail feathers intact.

One factor, of which we hear very little, has entered into this situation in a big way—that is the French alliance with Russia. Fascism is, of course, violently anti-Communist, and is winning recruits under that banner, for Red Russia is still a bugbear, especially to the little countries in the east.

France has been getting a lot of nasty looks from her friends because of this Moscow hook-up. As a matter of fact, Britain herself isn't so keen about the arrangement, and some of her prominent statesmen have been openly antagonistic to it.

French Premier Camille Chauvins has just informed his cabinet that France and Britain are in accord on "all subjects." The government took the trouble to issue a communique to this effect.

JUMPING AT CONCLUSIONS

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—Warren Detweiler, married three days, sat down in a comfortable chair in his new apartment, but sprang up quickly. A stabbing pain in the right leg was credited by his bride to a needle left in the chair when she had been sewing. The Detweilers went to the hospital for removal of the object. Doctors found a wasp.

SPANISH WAR PRISONERS HOUSED IN OPEN CAMPS

Barcelona, Spain (AP).—The 25,000 to 30,000 prisoners of the Republican government of Spain must be treated as "human beings" under the code of Manuel de Irujo, minister of justice.

A Basque nationalist and devout Catholic, Irujo said in an interview that prisoners should aim at correction and not extermination.

Dealing with a prison population which has increased from a maximum of 10,000 persons before the war, Irujo said he insisted on modern sanitary equipment in prisons

despite criticism from some persons who objected that prisoners were too well treated.

Prisoners are being evacuated from besieged Madrid, and many are being housed in open camps under normal, healthy conditions. In a typical camp at Albatera in the Levante, Irujo explained, specialists are permitted to work outside the prison while others aid in constructing the Madrid-Tarazona railway.

Joaquin Miller who wrote "Song of the Sierras" and other poems, was cremated when he died, and his ashes taken to the Sierras and scattered in the wind.

Taxis in Lisbon, Portugal, are required by a new law to take a weekly day of rest.

The speaker has been the president of the British House of Commons since 1937.

Over in eastern Europe, Poland—once staunch French ally—has a sort of dictatorship and is flirting with Hitler; the Little Entente, which France constructed with such care as a defense against Germany, gives many signs of splitting up. Yugoslavia and Rumania are leaning towards the Fascist set-up, and Czechoslovakia, the third member, while still loyal to France, has a dire problem on her hands in a big German population which is Nazi.

France is energetically trying to repair this damage, and she and England are trying to work out some plan which will satisfy the Fascist claims (such as Hitler's demand for a return of German colonies), and still leave democracy with some of its tail feathers intact.

One factor, of which we hear very little, has entered into this situation in a big way—that is the French alliance with Russia. Fascism is, of course, violently anti-Communist, and is winning recruits under that banner, for Red Russia is still a bugbear, especially to the little countries in the east.

France has been getting a lot of nasty looks from her friends because of this Moscow hook-up. As a matter of fact, Britain herself isn't so keen about the arrangement, and some of her prominent statesmen have been openly antagonistic to it.

French Premier Camille Chauvins has just informed his cabinet that France and Britain are in accord on "all subjects." The government took the trouble to issue a communique to this effect.

JUMPING AT CONCLUSIONS

Lancaster, Pa. (AP)—Warren Detweiler, married three days, sat down in a comfortable chair in his new apartment, but sprang up quickly. A stabbing pain in the right leg was credited by his bride to a needle left in the chair when she had been sewing. The Detweillers went to the hospital for removal of the object. Doctors found a wasp.

SPANISH WAR PRISONERS HOUSED IN OPEN CAMPS

Barcelona, Spain (AP).—The 25,000 to 30,000 prisoners of the Republican government of Spain must be treated as "human beings" under the code of Manuel de Irujo, minister of justice.

A Basque nationalist and devout Catholic, Irujo said in an interview that prisons should aim at correction and not extermination.

Dealing with a prison population which has increased from a maximum of 10,000 persons before the war, Irujo said he insisted on modern sanitary equipment in prisons

despite criticism from some persons who objected that prisoners were too well treated.

Prisoners are being evacuated from besieged Madrid, and many are being housed in open camps under normal, healthy conditions. In a typical camp at Albatera in the Levante, Irujo explained, specialists are permitted to work outside the prison while others aid in constructing the Madrid-Tarazona railway.

Joaquin Miller who wrote "Song of the Sierras" and other poems, was cremated when he died, and his ashes taken to the Sierras and scattered in the wind.

Taxis in Lisbon, Portugal, are required by a new law to take a weekly day of rest.

Hollywood—One of the most carefully planned careers in the movies is that of 11-year-old Jane Withers, and the planner is a "movie mamma" who lacks the disagreeable characteristics usually associated with that term.Out at the Pomona race track, where Jane is on location for a new version of the famous "Checkers" yarn, Mrs. Ruth Withers was sitting at her usual respectful distance behind the camera. The only time she took part in the movie proceedings was when Jane, during the scene, got something in her eye—and then Mrs. Withers removed it only when Jane was sent over to her.Not having seen Jane in some time, I was rather surprised at the lack of change in her. She's only three inches taller than when she first cracked pictures in Shirley Temple's "Bright Eyes," but she's as brown as toast.

Jane and her mother have never been apart for so much as a single night—and the fact brought up an interesting question. After devoting her whole life to Jane—back home she never accepted a bridge invitation unless she could bring the child along—what will the mother do when Jane grows up, and gets married as most girls do? Except for Jane, her home, and her husband (who's in business out here now), Mrs. Withers has refused to let other interests into her life."Jane's a sensible girl," her mother answered, "and I don't think she would marry foolishly.
When she finds a nice boy, I'm not going to do a thing to break up her happiness. I don't think she would want to put me out of her life—then, and well, there are good mothers-in-law as well as good movie mammas," she smiled.
"I'd try to be one."Surgeon's Needle

Mrs. Withers Is Tops
Among "Movie Mammams"

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—One of the most carefully planned careers in the movies is that of 11-year-old Jane Withers, and the planner is a "movie mamma" who lacks the disagreeable characteristics usually associated with that term.

Out at the Pomona race track, where Jane is on location for a new version of the famous "Checkers" yarn, Mrs. Ruth Withers was sitting at her usual respectful distance behind the camera. The only time she took part in the movie proceedings was when Jane, during the scene, got something in her eye—and then Mrs. Withers removed it only when Jane was sent over to her.

Not having seen Jane in some time, I was rather surprised at the lack of change in her. She's only three inches taller than when she first cracked pictures in Shirley Temple's "Bright Eyes," but she's as brown as toast.

Wanted Stage Career

"She hasn't missed a day in pictures because of illness in these three years," Mrs. Withers remarked. "She's happiest when she's on a picture—hates to see one end, can't wait for another to begin."

"That's why I think she won't ever want to give up acting. Right now she thinks she would like a year or two at college, and of course she'll have it."

Jane's film career represents the fruition of her mother's own unrealized dream of theatrical success. When they came here from Atlanta, they had tough times breaking in, but Mrs. Withers refused to give up. She was right. Jane now, unaided by spectacular or expensive picture vehicles, has pulled herself up to the very edge of the charmed circle of box-office favorites. In the last poll she ranked eleventh—quite a feat when you consider she is on the same lot with Shirley Temple.

If her film career encounters an awkward age problem, the Withers plan to keep on in radio and personal appearance tours until college time. Jane's studying Spanish now to include South America in her itinerary.

A Child Star's Future

Jane and her mother have never been apart for so much as a single night—and the fact brought up an interesting question. After devoting her whole life to Jane—back home she never accepted a bridge invitation unless she could bring the child along—what will the mother do when Jane grows up, and gets married as most girls do? Except for Jane, her home, and her husband (who's in business out here now), Mrs. Withers has refused to let other interests into her life.

"Jane's a sensible girl," her mother answered, "and I don't think she would marry foolishly. When she finds a nice boy, I'm not going to do a thing to break up her happiness. I don't think she would want to put me out of her life—then, and—well, there are good mothers-in-law as well as good movie mammas," she smiled. "I'd try to be one."

Surgeon's Needle

Wanders Around -
In Boy's Body

Pittsburgh, Dec. 8 (AP)—Surgeons are going to hunt for the hollow needle that has been wandering in 12-year-old William Best's body for the last four years. The needle broke off and disappeared after it had been inserted to drain the lad's lung following an illness of scarlet fever and pneumonia.

Learning of the boy's plight, City Health Director, I. Hope Alexander pledged the resources of the city's hospitals and Councilman Thomas Gallagher said council would furnish $500 for the surgery.
